O'Neill Orders Big Slash In State Budget

Askings For 1957 $266 Million Over Previous Ohio Bill

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill today ordered drastic cuts in "fantastic" department budget requests to prevent state bankruptcy.

The new governor said major requests for operating funds for the next two years exceeded appropriations of the previous biennium by $266 million.

Terming the request fantastic, O'Neill told newsmen:

"If these requests were to be approved, in my opinion, it would bankrupt the state."

O'Neill said the requests involved general revenues and were exclusive of highway and capital improvement funds. General revenue appropriations of two years ago total $750 million. The total budget including other funds was $931 million.

The governor said a few more budget requests are expected but that major estimates were in.

* * *

ON THAT BASIS, requests for general revenue funds to operate the state for the two year bookkeeping period starting next July 1 approximate $1 billion.

O'Neill said the appropriation requests were received before he took office Jan. 14. "If these requests were to be approved,' he said, "It is obvious that vast new taxes would be required to meet them."

The governor indicated that cuts would not be made across the board on a percentage basis. He said figures showed that some departments spent more in the last biennium than was appropriated.

O'Neill discussed his financial problems with newsmen after a conference with John Wilcoxon, state finance director.

The governor said Wilcoxon, who served under former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will be the new superintendent of the budget. Wilcoxon will fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Walter Garrison as budg-

Ike Not Planning Any Trips Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower apparently has ruled out a trip abroad in the predictable future.

India's Prime Minister Nehru extended an invitation during his United States visit in December.

Wednesday Eisenhower told his news conference that while he hopes many foreign leaders will visit him in Washington, he has "no plans to go anywhere outside the United States."

He said the special nature of the Presidency makes it "rather awkward" for him to be away.

Circleville Tigers Will Face Crucial Contest Friday Night

By PAUL SMALLWOOD
Herald Sports Editor

Circleville High's cage Tigers face a crucial test Friday night when the Hurricanes of Wilmington roll into town for an important South Central League battle.

Much will depend on the outcome of the game for the Tigers. Should they lose, their hopes of at least sharing a part of the league crown will be all but shattered.

If they win, the local cagers will still be very much in the running for top honors.

Wilmington is currently leading loop competition with a record of four wins and one loss. Circleville's record stands at two wins and two defeats.

* * *

THE HURRICANES only loss was at the hands of Washington C. H., the team presently holding down second place in the circuit. However, the Tigers are maintaining high hopes of victory, for they are one of the two teams to hang a loop league loss on the Washington cagers.

Friday night's contest here should prove very interesting, for the Tigers will be out to avenge an earlier 62 to 39 defeat at the hands of the Hurricanes.

To do this, the locals know they will have to stop Wilmington's sharpshooter, Steve Rainer. The Hurricane scoring ace will undoubtedly be out to better the 27-point-per-game average that he now owns.

In the first meeting with the Tigers, Rainer collected 23 points. He was given some able assistanec by guard Howard Barnes who posted 14 tallies and big center Dave Carey who hit for 13.

A big stumbling block for the Tigers this year has been their inability to hit at the foul line. So far, the CHS men have lost five games in which they have scored more baskets than their opponents, but lacked sadly in the foul-shooting department.

However, Coach Red Courtney's charges hope they will have this situation corrected by Friday night. Indications are that foul-shooting will probably play a big part in deciding which team will end up victorious.

* * *

ANOTHER handicap to the Tigers this year has been the poor attendance at home games. School officials are hoping that both students and adult cage fans will show up Friday night to give the locals an added boost from the sidelines.

The first game of the evening will get underway at 7 p. m. when Coach Dick Boyd's Kittens swing into action against the Hurricane reservists.

Road Death Toll, Lax Police Linked

BOSTON (AP) — A safety official says some law enforcement laxity has contributed to the 40,200 deaths on American highways last year.

Terming 1956 traffic safety's "blackest year" Richard O. Bennett of Chicago, director of the automotive division of the National Assn. of Automobile Mutual Insurance Companies, charged some law officials with "dragging their feet" in traffic law enforcement.

Drunk Pedestrian Said Road Hazard

ATLANTA (AP)—A veteran state trooper says drunken pedestrians are getting to be an "awful hazard" on Georgia highways.

Sgt. Richard Hamrick said intoxicated foot travelers are "worse than cows" in testimony before a special committee studying highway safety.

Roads Slippery

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Highway Department today reported that roads north of a line marked by Van Wert, Lima, Marion, Wooster and Lisbon, including the Ohio Turnpike, are slippery.

Prospects Growing Dimmer For American-Soviet Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect for a better understanding between the United States and Russia, a declared aim of President Eisenhower in his second term, is dimmer today than four years ago.

Diplomatic officials give two principal reasons: (1) hopes which soared after the death of Joseph Stalin have not been realized, and (2) crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East have sharpened East-West tension.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that at the outset of his second term "everything else fades to unimportance" beside the need for better understanding among nations. He mentioned particularly better understanding with the Russians. East-West understanding, he said, could lead to "agreements in which we could all trust."

But even before the need for understanding with the Russians he placed the need for stronger accord among free nations based on the certainty "that their economic and military strength is equal to the test."

* * *

HE DECLINED to say that the Russians are hardening their attitude toward the United States. But he did remark that "we are dealing with people who are rather unpredictable and, at times, they are just practically inexplicable."

In dealing with their own setbacks in Hungary and with United States plans for strengthening the Middle East against communism, the Russians are conducting a hate campaign against the United States to an extent unknown since Stalin's day.

They are trying to convince the peoples in the Middle East and South Asia as well as North Africa that the United States has launched a "new colonialism" aimed at taking over Egypt, Syria, Iraq and the like.

Officials in Washington think the Russians may really be seriously worried about the possibility that U. S. military power will be established in the Middle East.

The Soviets do not worry so much about being held in check as they do about real or fancied threats to the security of their own vital areas, including the Baku oil fields north of Iran which are vulnerable to attack from the Middle East.

Nasser Sees 'New Trouble' In Mid-East

Egyptian Chief Warns Against Protectorate For Gaza Strip, Aqaba

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt's President Nasser has told Chinese newsmen any attempt by Western powers to 'internationalize" the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba "would lead to new trouble."

The statement came as rival Israeli-Egyptian positions on a Middle East settlement appeared to harden as a U. N.-imposed midnight deadline neared for Israel's withdrawal from all Egyptian territory including the Gaza Strip.

At the same time, 70 Democratic senators in Washington called on U. S. Secretary of State Dulles to insist that Nasser help contribute to a solution to Middle East problems.

Saying they "understand" Israel's reluctance to withdraw from Egyptian territory, the Democrats asked for assurance against a return to conditions under which Nasser barred Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal.

Then in a reference to President Eisenhower's Middle East program, they sad:

* * *

"IT IS A FUTILE enterprise to erect defenses against external Soviet aggression if we ignore the danger that a Communist-armed or Communist-inspired power is in a position, at any time it wishes, to close this major waterway."

The Communist New China News Agency, reporting an interview Nasser gave Chinese reporters, said the Egyptian leader declared he would give his views on the Eisenhower plan after the United States had given further explanation. He described the plan as vague.

The Red agency's report quoted Nasser as saying proposals to internationalize the Gaza area and the Gulf of Aqaba Coast "mean supporting aggression and giving benefits to aggressors.

"These areas are Egyptian territory and any interference in Egyptian territory is a violation of Egypt's sovereignty which we oppose completely."

Ike Is Urged Break 'Silence' On Race Issue

ATLANTA (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, has asked President Eisenhower to "speak out from his high office" against what he described as lawlessness and violence against the Negro in the South.

Addressing a rally Wednesday night, Wilkins said the President can see the plight of the Hungarians, he gives the drought area his personal attention, but he "chooses to remain silent while American citizens are being bludgeoned out of their freedoms and their rights."

Wilkins said "our churches have been bombed, our ministers arrested, our boys and girls driven from school by mobs, our families uprooted and made to flee for their lives" and no rebuke has come from any high official.

He said Gov. Marvin Griffin in a recent address to the Legislature called for the preservation of racial segregation in Georgia "no matter what any court may rule."

This declaration, Wilkins declared, gave the "green light to the hoodlums . . . the dynamiter, the sniper, the poison pen artist, the cross-burner and the run-of-the mill mobster."

Secretaries List 'Ideal Boss' Notes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles chapter of the National Secretaries Assn. lists these qualifications of the ideal boss:

Always remember your secretary has your best interests at heart.

Turn your back when she comes in late and think of all the hours she has worked overtime.

Don't ask her to work on her day off; she needs the rest.

When dictating, don't shave, have your hair cut, shoes shined, chew gum or smoke a cigar.

And above all, take her to lunch once in a while—she can't afford to eat out on the salary you pay.

Dulles Pleads: 'Trust Ike' On Spending In Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Dulles pleaded today that Congress trust President Eisenhower to make good use of the $200 million the administration asks for military and economic aid to Middle East nations.

Pressed by Sen. Russell (D-Ga) for more information on how the money would be spent, Dulles told a Senate hearing:

"If we have to pinpoint everything we propose to do, this program will not serve its purpose.

"If Congress is not willing to trust the President to the extent he asks, we can't win this battle."

Dulles said too that the Middle East situation could end in "a great disaster to the United States" if Eisenhower was not given the military and economic powers he asks.

However, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) demanded that Dulles submit an official "white paper" justifying his conduct of American foreign policy in the Middle East.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) backed Fulbright's move as a means of forcing Dulles to explain more clearly to Congress why special military-economic authority is needed to deal with Communist threats in the Middle East.

Eisenhower asked authority to send in U.S. troops against any overt Communist aggression in the Middle East, and approval for spending up to $200 million out of available funds this year on economic aid.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said that support for the administration's resolution "has been building up steadily ever since the Russians and Red Chinese got out their joint communique threatening to defend the Middle East against aggression from us."

Meantime, the House Foreign Affairs Committee drove toward completion of its work on the Middle East resolution. There were indications the finished product would follow administration proposals rather closely.

Chairman Gordon (D-Ill) said prospects looked "good" for completing action by nightfall.

The House group Wednesday wrote in tentatively a stipulation that the proposed economic aid should go to any nation or group of nations in the area "desiring such assistance." The original version included no such specific provision.

The group also discussed some 15 amendments but took no action on any.

The administration was described as agreeing to two proposed amendments. These would: (1) make clear that the $200 would be available for commitment only during the fiscal year, ending June 30, and (2) limit spending for any one country to $30 million.

Eisenhower said Wednesday that separation of the economic and military phases of his proposal "would destroy what we are really trying to do."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said that "while many senators have serious doubts, the feeling is growing it might have a bad impact around the world if we vote for the use of force and left out economic support. It might do more harm than good."

10-Year-Old Mine Fire To Be 'Dug' Out

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP)—A "big dig," aimed at stamping out a 10-year-old mine fire, is underway here in the heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite region.

The federal and state governments, along with authorities of this city of 15,000, expect to spend more than $2 million in a massive excavation job in the 120-acre area affected by the underground blaze.

The project may take as long as 10 years to complete. Some 320 families will be relocated in "temporary" homes and 357 dwellings will be torn down as the work goes on.

According to plans, the fire will be attacked from three directions at once. The average "cuts"—the area actually will be strip-mined—will reach a depth of 90 feet and a width of 270 feet.

The first job is to contain the blaze and prevent its spreading across a line which borders the approaches to the downtown business district.

The fire, fed by rich coal deposits, originally affected only a 15-acre area. It began in an abandoned strip mine on the west side of town in August, 1946.

A portion of the cost of the project will be paid off by an estimated $425,000 in royalties on coal unearthed in the "big dig."

FBI Captures Alfred White In Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — FBI agents, acting on a tip, lay in wait at a small hotel early today and captured Alfred James White, 53, one of the agency's "10 most wanted men."

White had been sought since June 7, 1954, for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for assault. It was on that date, the FBI said, that White escaped from police at West Hamlin, W. Va., after a gun battle that started when officers broke up an attempted burglary.

The FBI said White, a native of Mount Sterling, Ohio, has had previous convictions for larceny, automobile theft and robbery, and was listed as a parole violator.

C. E. Piper, agent in charge of the Memphis office, said White offered no resistance and admitted his identity.

Piper said White was unarmed but that after he was captured agents found three pistols, a sawed-off shotgun, a knife and an air rifle in his automobile.

He had been living under an alias at the hotel since last November. White, Piper said, refused to say what he had been doing since his arrival here or since the FBI picked up his trail two years ago.

Mystery Deepens In Girls' Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Investigators seeking clues in the slaying of the teen-age Grimes sisters were confronted today with a new mystery, the cause of their deaths.

Science may furnish the answer. But it was not apparent to expert pathologists after a five-hour examination of the girls' bodies Wednesday.

The pathologists also could not estimate the date of the deaths of Barbara Grimes, 15, and her 13-year-old sister Patricia. They disappeared on the night of Dec. 28 after leaving home to attend a movie. Their nude bodies were found Tuesday in a rural roadside ditch in suburban Willow Springs.

"This is one of the roughest cases I've ever seen in my years with the coroner's office," said Dr. Jerry Kearns, chief pathologist of St. Elizabeth's Hospital and former pathologist for many years for the coroner's office.

* * *

"THE MURDER in this case was diabolically clever," Kearns said. "He used a method which we are unable to detect. Perhaps he is a person trained in chemistry and with a knowledge of unusual poisons."

The autopsy findings disclosed the sisters had not been molested sexually; did not die by strangulation, or carbon monoxide poisoning; no signs of external violence on the bodies that could have caused death; and that the bodies appeared to have been exposed to cold temperatures for some time.

Kearns, Dr. Edwin Hirsch, chief pathologist at St. Luke's Hospital and Dr. A. C. Webb, coroner's pathologist, conducted the exam.

Tissue from the bodies was sent to Dr. Walter J. R. Camp, state police toxicologist, for analysis, a process that will take from 10 days to two weeks.

The pathologists said three puncture wounds on Patricia's chest, earlier believed to have been caused by an ice pick or a similar weapon, were only superficial.

Meanwhile, Donald S. Hostetter, FBI chief in Chicago, said a demand note sent to the girls' mother Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 48, was being investigated. He said the FBI entered the case Jan. 7 after Mrs. Grimes received the first of nine notes concerning her daughters, then listed as missing. Mrs. Grimes is divorced from the girls' father Joseph, 48, a truck driver.

Hostetter said eight other notes, each demanding $1,000 to be delivered in Milwaukee, have been traced to a mental patient at a veterans hospital near Chicago. He said these notes have been discarded as possible clues.

The FBI chief declined to disclose contents of the ninth note.

Man Said 'Sober As Judge' After Courtroom Drink Tests

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — William C. Rose, a 238-pounder who drinks his whisky straight—and often—proved in court he can down 20 slugs and still remain "as sober as the judge."

Whether he drank himself scott free of a drunken driving charge still is undetermined. City Court Judge Francis A. Sobieski said he probably will hand down a decision Friday.

Rose was quick with his own verdict. Declaring he was "sober as the judge" after the courtroom demonstration, he said he hoped to prove that a reading by the city's drunkometer was no accurate measure of a man's ability to hold his liquor and still drive a car safely.

The 44-year - old apartment house manager, who likes his pint of spirits every day, was arrested Dec. 15. Tested by the drunkometer, his reading came up .246. A person who gets a reading of .150 (which indicates 150 thousandths of 1 per cent of alcohol in the bloodstream) is considered drunk by law.

Rose and his attorneys challenged the accuracy of the drunkometer. The judge agreed to a courtroom test.

Rose came in with three pints of an 86-proof whisky.

He drank almost a pint and a half in about 4½ hours. He took it straight, with ice water chasers. He had several cups of coffee during that time and a half a sandwich at lunch.

But he never got drunk. The judge halted the test after the 20th shot and Rose took a drunkometer test. The reading was far shy of the "drunk" minimum and less than half the reading officers reported the night he was arrested at that time, he claimed, he had downed "only seven or eight drinks.

But after the 20th shot in court, he was slurring his words a bit and talking much louder. He still was able to navigate without any particular stagger or sway. Visual and reaction tests showed his efficiency had dropped in all phases except depth perception.

When it was over, the judge instructed his attorneys to get him home safely—with someone else driving.

Rose said he'd brought a friend along for that purpose, just to be on the safe side.

Company Expects Service To Be Restored Today

At least 110 local telephones were put out of operation early this morning when a cable containing 50 pairs of wires was sliced in two near the Island Road, just outside Circleville city limits.

Local officials of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company said that work crews discovered the break about 9:30 a. m. after the company had received complaints that telephones were "dead." The large cable was servered about six feet above the ground at a point where it comes above the surface and is attached to the side of a pole.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's office said there were no apparent clues to the identity of the cutters, but that the slashing was probably done with an axe.

Company officials believe that service to the affected area will be restored later today. Telephones of the Circleville water works and the pumping station were among those disrupted.

* * *

THE CABLE cutting is one of several such incidents discovered in this area since a strike against the utility began last July. The latest incident in the area prior to today's report occurred on January 16 when a wire was broken near the Ringgold Pike, about five miles northeast of Circleville.

Today's cutting was the 435th cable disruption in telephone company lines since the strike began, according to a company spokesman. Most of the vandalism, however, has occured in Pike and Scioto counties.

Local officials of the striking Communication Workers of America have denied knowledge of the cable slashing. The union has long maintained that its members have not been involved in cable or wire cutting incidents.

Father And Son Die In Home Fire

"ELVIS PRESLEY RECORD OWNED BY LIBERACE FAN"

Before I get any angry letters from the Elvis Presley or Liberace fans I'd like to explain that the record in this Droodle was broken by me. I dropped it while I was adjusting the Woofer on my new Hi-Fi Set. You see, the Woofer is connected to the Speakers which are controlled by a 4-Element, 12-Decibal Cross-Over Network coupled to an FM-AM Tuner with a 45-Watt Amplifier which picks up the signal from the Tone Arm Cartridge, and I got so confused by all this stuff I accidently let the record slip out of my hand. I'll admit it's expensive equipment and very complicated but as the fellow who sold it to me said, "Until you've listened to recordings on a Hi-Fi you ain't heard nothin'." I know if I don't figure how to work the thing soon that's exactly what I'll be hearing—nothin'.

O'Neill Orders Big Slash In State Budget

Askings For 1957 $266 Million Over Previous Ohio Bill

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill today ordered drastic cuts in "fantastic" department budget requests to prevent state bankruptcy.

The new governor said major requests for operating funds for the next two years exceeded appropriations of the previous biennium by $266 million.

Terming the request fantastic, O'Neill told newsmen:

"If these requests were to be approved, in my opinion, it would bankrupt the state."

O'Neill said the requests involved general revenues and were exclusive of highway and capital improvement funds. General revenue appropriations of two years ago total $750 million. The total budget including other funds was $931 million.

The governor said a few more budget requests are expected but that major estimates were in.

The governor indicated that cuts would not be made across the board on a percentage basis. He said figures showed that some departments spent more in the last biennium than was appropriated.

O'Neill discussed his financial problems with newsmen after a conference with John Wilcoxon, state finance director.

The governor said Wilcoxon, who served under former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will be the new superintendent of the budget. Wilcoxon will fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Walter Garrison as budg-

Circleville Tigers Will Face Crucial Contest Friday Night

By PAUL SMALLWOOD
Herald Sports Editor

Circleville High's cage Tigers face a crucial test Friday night when the Hurricanes of Wilmington roll into town for an important South Central League battle.

Much will depend on the outcome of the game for the Tigers. Should they lose, their hopes of at least sharing a part of the league crown will be all but shattered.

If they win, the local cagers will still be very much in the running for top honors.

Wilmington is currently leading loop competition with a record of four wins and one loss. Circleville's record stands at two wins and two defeats.

* * *

THE HURRICANES only loss was at the hands of Washington C. H., the team presently holding down second place in the circuit. However, the Tigers are maintaining high hopes of victory, for they are one of the two teams to hang a loop league loss on the Washington cagers.

Friday night's contest here should prove very interesting, for the Tigers will be out to avenge an earlier 62 to 39 defeat at the hands of the Hurricanes.

To do this, the locals know they will have to stop Wilmington's sharpshooter, Steve Rainer. The Hurricane scoring ace will undoubtedly be out to better the 27-point-per-game average that he now owns.

In the first meeting with the Tigers, Rainer collected 23 points. He was given some able assistanec by guard Howard Barnes who posted 14 tallies and big center Dave Carey who hit for 13.

A big stumbling block for the Tigers this year has been their inability to hit at the foul line. So far, the CHS men have lost five games in which they have scored more baskets than their opponents, but lacked sadly in the foul-shooting department.

However, Coach Red Courtney's charges hope they will have this situation corrected by Friday night. Indications are that foul-shooting will probably play a big part in deciding which team will end up victorious.

* * *

ANOTHER handicap to the Tigers this year has been the poor attendance at home games. School officials are hoping that both students and adult cage fans will show up Friday night to give the locals an added boost from the sidelines.

The first game of the evening will get underway at 7 p. m. when Coach Dick Boyd's Kittens swing into action against the Hurricane reservists.

Road Death Toll, Lax Police Linked

BOSTON (AP) — A safety official says some law enforcement laxity has contributed to the 40,200 deaths on American highways last year.

Terming 1956 traffic safety's "blackest year" Richard O. Bennett of Chicago, director of the automotive division of the National Assn. of Automobile Mutual Insurance Companies, charged some law officials with "dragging their feet" in traffic law enforcement.

Drunk Pedestrian Said Road Hazard

ATLANTA (AP)—A veteran state trooper says drunken pedestrians are getting to be an "awful hazard" on Georgia highways.

Sgt. Richard Hamrick said intoxicated foot travelers are "worse than cows" in testimony before a special committee studying highway safety.

Roads Slippery

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Highway Department today reported that roads north of a line marked by Van Wert, Lima, Marion, Wooster and Lisbon, including the Ohio Turnpike, are slippery.

Prospects Growing Dimmer For American-Soviet Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect for a better understanding between the United States and Russia, a declared aim of President Eisenhower in his second term, is dimmer today than four years ago.

Diplomatic officials give two principal reasons: (1) hopes which soared after the death of Joseph Stalin have not been realized, and (2) crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East have sharpened East-West tension.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that at the outset of his second term "everything else fades to unimportance" beside the need for better understanding among nations. He mentioned particularly better understanding with the Russians. East-West understanding, he said, could lead to "agreements in which we could all trust."

But even before the need for understanding with the Russians he placed the need for stronger accord among free nations based on the certainty "that their economic and military strength is equal to the test."

* * *

HE DECLINED to say that the Russians are hardening their attitude toward the United States. But he did remark that "we are dealing with people who are rather unpredictable and, at times, they are just practically inexplicable."

In dealing with their own setbacks in Hungary and with United States plans for strengthening the Middle East against communism, the Russians are conducting a hate campaign against the United States to an extent unknown since Stalin's day.

They are trying to convince the peoples in the Middle East and South Asia as well as North Africa that the United States has launched a "new colonialism" aimed at taking over Egypt, Syria, Iraq and the like.

Officials in Washington think the Russians may really be seriously worried about the possibility that U. S. military power will be established in the Middle East.

The Soviets do not worry so much about being held in check as they do about real or fancied threats to the security of their own vital areas, including the Baku oil fields north of Iran which are vulnerable to attack from the Middle East.

Ike Is Urged Break 'Silence' On Race Issue

ATLANTA (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, has asked President Eisenhower to "speak out from his high office" against what he described as lawlessness and violence against the Negro in the South.

Addressing a rally Wednesday night, Wilkins said the President can see the plight of the Hungarians, he gives the drought area his personal attention, but he "chooses to remain silent while American citizens are being bludgeoned out of their freedoms and their rights."

Wilkins said "our churches have been bombed, our ministers arrested, our boys and girls driven from school by mobs, our families uprooted and made to flee for their lives" and no rebuke has come from any high official.

He said Gov. Marvin Griffin in a recent address to the Legislature called for the preservation of racial segregation in Georgia "no matter what any court may rule."

This declaration, Wilkins declared, gave the "green light to the hoodlums . . . the dynamiter, the sniper, the poison pen artist, the cross-burner and the run-of-the mill mobster."

Secretaries List 'Ideal Boss' Notes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles chapter of the National Secretaries Assn. lists these qualifications of the ideal boss:

Always remember your secretary has your best interests at heart.

Turn your back when she comes in late and think of all the hours she has worked overtime.

Don't ask her to work on her day off; she needs the rest.

When dictating, don't shave, have your hair cut, shoes shined, chew gum or smoke a cigar.

And above all, take her to lunch once in a while—she can't afford to eat out on the salary you pay.

10-Year-Old Mine Fire To Be 'Dug' Out

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP)—A "big dig," aimed at stamping out a 10-year-old mine fire, is underway here in the heart of the Pennsylvania anthracite region.

The federal and state governments, along with authorities of this city of 15,000, expect to spend more than $2 million in a massive excavation job in the 120-acre area affected by the underground blaze.

The project may take as long as 10 years to complete. Some 320 families will be relocated in "temporary" homes and 357 dwellings will be torn down as the work goes on.

According to plans, the fire will be attacked from three directions at once. The average "cuts"—the area actually will be strip-mined—will reach a depth of 90 feet and a width of 270 feet.

The first job is to contain the blaze and prevent its spreading across a line which borders the approaches to the downtown business district.

The fire, fed by rich coal deposits, originally affected only a 15-acre area. It began in an abandoned strip mine on the west side of town in August, 1946.

A portion of the cost of the project will be paid off by an estimated $425,000 in royalties on coal unearthed in the "big dig."

FBI Captures Alfred White In Tennessee

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — FBI agents, acting on a tip, lay in wait at a small hotel early today and captured Alfred James White, 53, one of the agency's "10 most wanted men."

White had been sought since June 7, 1954, for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for assault. It was on that date, the FBI said, that White escaped from police at West Hamlin, W. Va., after a gun battle that started when officers broke up an attempted burglary.

The FBI said White, a native of Mount Sterling, Ohio, has had previous convictions for larceny, automobile theft and robbery, and was listed as a parole violator.

C. E. Piper, agent in charge of the Memphis office, said White offered no resistance and admitted his identity.

Piper said White was unarmed but that after he was captured agents found three pistols, a sawed-off shotgun, a knife and an air rifle in his automobile.

He had been living under an alias at the hotel since last November. White, Piper said, refused to say what he had been doing since his arrival here or since the FBI picked up his trail two years ago.

ROME, N. Y. (AP)—An Air Force tanker plane missing since Tuesday night with seven men aboard was found today in the Adirondack Mountains north of here. Police said no sign of life had been reported.

Mystery Deepens In Girls' Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Investigators seeking clues in the slaying of the teen-age Grimes sisters were confronted today with a new mystery, the cause of their deaths.

Science may furnish the answer. But it was not apparent to expert pathologists after a five-hour examination of the girls' bodies Wednesday.

The pathologists also could not estimate the date of the deaths of Barbara Grimes, 15, and her 13-year-old sister Patricia. They disappeared on the night of Dec. 28 after leaving home to attend a movie. Their nude bodies were found Tuesday in a rural roadside ditch in suburban Willow Springs.

"This is one of the roughest cases I've ever seen in my years with the coroner's office," said Dr. Jerry Kearns, chief pathologist of St. Elizabeth's Hospital and former pathologist for many years for the coroner's office.

* * *

"THE MURDER in this case was diabolically clever," Kearns said. "He used a method which we are unable to detect. Perhaps he is a person trained in chemistry and with a knowledge of unusual poisons."

The autopsy findings disclosed the sisters had not been molested sexually; did not die by strangulation, or carbon monoxide poisoning; no signs of external violence on the bodies that could have caused death; and that the bodies appeared to have been exposed to cold temperatures for some time.

Kearns, Dr. Edwin Hirsch, chief pathologist at St. Luke's Hospital and Dr. A. C. Webb, coroner's pathologist, conducted the exam.

Tissue from the bodies was sent to Dr. Walter J. R. Camp, state police toxicologist, for analysis, a process that will take from 10 days to two weeks.

The pathologists said three puncture wounds on Patricia's chest, earlier believed to have been caused by an ice pick or a similar weapon, were only superficial.

Meanwhile, Donald S. Hostetter, FBI chief in Chicago, said a demand note sent to the girls' mother Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 48, was being investigated. He said the FBI entered the case Jan. 7 after Mrs. Grimes received the first of nine notes concerning her daughters, then listed as missing. Mrs. Grimes is divorced from the girls' father Joseph, 48, a truck driver.

Hostetter said eight other notes, each demanding $1,000 to be delivered in Milwaukee, have been traced to a mental patient at a veterans hospital near Chicago. He said these notes have been discarded as possible clues.

The FBI chief declined to disclose contents of the ninth note.

Princess, Baby Reported Doing OK

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Princess Grace's doctors said she could get out of bed for an hour this afternoon, less than 30 hours after the birth of her first child.

The palace physicians announced the former Hollywood movie star would be allowed up at increasingly frequent intervals after her first time on her feet.

Princess Grace and her baby, Princess Caroline, were reported in excellent condition. The 26-year-old mother spent a quiet night. The blue-eyed, dark-haired baby slept in the royal crib at her bedside from midnight until 6 a. m., without waking.

Man Said 'Sober As Judge' After Courtroom Drink Tests

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — William C. Rose, a 238-pounder who drinks his whisky straight—and often—proved in court he can down 20 slugs and still remain "as sober as the judge."

Whether he drank himself scott free of a drunken driving charge still is undetermined. City Court Judge Francis A. Sobieski said he probably will hand down a decision Friday.

Rose was quick with his own verdict. Declaring he was "sober as the judge" after the courtroom demonstration, he said he hoped to prove that a reading by the city's drunkometer was no accurate measure of a man's ability to hold his liquor and still drive a car safely.

The 44-year - old apartment house manager, who likes his pint of spirits every day, was arrested Dec. 15. Tested by the drunkometer, his reading came up .246. A person who gets a reading of .150 (which indicates 150 thousandths of 1 per cent of alcohol in the bloodstream) is considered drunk by law.

Rose and his attorneys challenged the accuracy of the drunkometer. The judge agreed to a courtroom test.

Rose came in with three pints of an 86-proof whisky.

He drank almost a pint and a half in about 4½ hours. He took it straight, with ice water chasers. He had several cups of coffee during that time and a half a sandwich at lunch.

But he never got drunk. The judge halted the test after the 20th shot and Rose took a drunkometer test. The reading was far shy of the "drunk" minimum and less than half the reading officers reported the night he was arrested at that time, he claimed, he had downed "only seven or eight drinks.

But after the 20th shot in court, he was slurring his words a bit and talking much louder. He still was able to navigate without any particular stagger or sway. Visual and reaction tests showed his efficiency had dropped in all phases except depth perception.

When it was over, the judge instructed his attorneys to get him home safely—with someone else driving.

Rose said he'd brought a friend along for that purpose, just to be on the safe side.

Father And Son Die In Home Fire

BARBERTON (AP)—Two men, a father and son, died Wednesday night in a fire which trapped them while they were asleep at their home here. They were Herman Duweese, 56, and his son, Ralph, 26.

Three other members of the family broke through a window and escaped with cuts and minor burns for which they were treated and released at Barberton Citizens Hospital. The three were Mrs. Effie Duweese, 55, and two sons, Billy, 15, and Gilbert, 30.

DROODLES

By ROGER PRICE

"ELVIS PRESLEY RECORD OWNED BY LIBERACE FAN"

Before I get any angry letters from the Elvis Presley or Liberace fans I'd like to explain that the record in this Droodle was broken by me. I dropped it while I was adjusting the Woofer on my new Hi-Fi Set. You see, the Woofer is connected to the Speakers which are controlled by a 4-Element, 12-Decibal Cross-Over Network coupled to an FM-AM Tuner with a 45-Watt Amplifier which picks up the signal from the Tone Arm Cartridge, and I got so confused by all this stuff I accidently let the record slip out of my hand. I'll admit it's expensive equipment and very complicated but as the fellow who sold it to me said, "Until you've listened to recordings on a Hi-Fi you ain't heard nothin'." I know if I don't figure how to work the thing soon that's exactly what I'll be hearing—nothin'.

Area Farmers Reminded On Gas Tax Claims

County extension office officials reminded area farmers today that they are not required to file claims for refunds on Federal gasoline tax for the period ending July 1 to December 31 of 1956.

The law authorizing farmers to claim tax refunds was passed on April 2, 1956, and was made retro-active to January 1, 1956. The first claims filed were for the six months period of January 1, to June 30, 1956.

Spokesmen said that claims will be filed for a 12 month period beginning July 1 and ending June 30. The next claim may be filed after June 30, 1957.

Federal tax will be refunded at a rate of two cents per gallon on gasoline used on farms. Claims will not be allowed for gasoline used in custom work done for other farmers.

* * *

FARMERS who plan to file must keep sufficient records to enable the Internal Revenue Service to verify the accuracy of the claim.

No special form is required, but records should establish the total number of gallons purchased during the 12 month period of the claim, the number of gallons used for farming, and the number of gallons used by custom operators for farming purposes.

The new law providing refunds is in no way related to state taxes on gasoline.

O'Neill's Policy Message Due Next Monday

State Legislators Grow Anxious About Governor's Proposals

COLUMBUS (AP) — The coming weekend looks like an important one for the new administration of Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill.

In the next few days the new Republican governor will put the final polish on his "State-of-the-State" message, scheduled for delivery to a joint session of the Ohio Legislature Monday night.

The message is expected to contain much of O'Neill's proposed two-year program.

Restive lawmakers, after three dull weeks of marking time, want a look at the program and chance to "get the show on the road."

Everyone in the Legislature professes complete ignorance of the solutions O'Neill will propose for the state's problems — mostly financial. The professed ignorance extends down the line from veterans through the freshmen rank-and-file members.

* * *

MURMURS OF surprise have begun to drift through legislative corridors because a closer liaison has not yet developed between the all-Republican Legislature and the governor's office, which is in GOP hands for the first time in eight years.

Most lawmakers are inclined to the view that the new administration needs a few more days to get its feet on the ground, that present apparent uncertainties will turn into a confident approach to state problems in a few days. The administration, they point out, is only 10 days old.

The Legislature wound up its third abbreviated work week Wednesday by receiving 30 more bills. The total now stands at 171.

Two of Wednesday's bills dealt with a commonplace item — the driver's license.

One would require that a driver have it in his possession whenever he operates a motor vehicle.

The other would require that any violation of motor vehicle laws, whether the conviction is in a court of record or not, be posted on the offender's license and reported to the state registrar of motor vehicles.

The first proposal, by Rep. R. Martin Galvin (D-Lucas), would button up a loophole discovered recently by the attorney general.

* * *

A RECENT OPINION by that state official held that failure to carry a license while driving is not a violation of law.

The second, by Sen. Robert R. Shaw (R-Franklin) would make official notations of convictions of motor vehicle law violations in justice of peace courts and mayors' courts. As the law now stands, convictions are noted on licenses only when they arise in so-called "courts of record." These are the municipal courts, the courts of common pleas and on up.

Other proposals would:

Require venting of gas - fired heating units.

Require a 50-50 split of grade-crossing elimination costs between railroads and cities, present split is 85 per cent for cities and 15 for railroads.

Prohibit disciplinary suspension of state civil service employes without pay.

ACTIVE in 135 chapters throughout the state, Ohio Jaycees have set themselves the goal of striving for better communities and a stronger America through constructive civic projects.

Jaycee training in public service and in leadership today benefits a rapidly growing number of young Americans as the national membership approaches a quarter million.

Brief 'Spring' Is Ended By Gusty Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather persisted over most of the Midwest and spread into most of the eastern third of the country today, ending a brief spell of spring-like temperatures.

Temperatures in the eastern area dropped quickly as gusty winds brought in the icy air. Readings ranged from the 30s and 40s in the Gulf States to the teens in the Ohio Valley. Marks in the 30s and 40s also were reported in the Carolinas and ranged to around zero in New England. Southern Florida escapped the chill.

Sub-zero weather was indicated in sections of the northeast, some 40 to 50 degrees lower than Wednesday morning.

It was cold in most of the midwest, with readings below freezing.

Snow flurries or showers were in prospect during the day in most of the interior sections of the country from the Rockies westward to the coast and eastward across the northern plains into the upper Missippi Valley and northern Great Lakes. Freezing rain, sleet or snow was indicated in most of the central plains eastward into the Ohio Valley.

Local Health Chiefs Given Warning

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service says resistance by local public health administrators to new ideas and concepts may force the state or federal government to take action.

Dr. Leroy Burney told the University of Michigan's institute on public health administration Wednesday that unwillingness of local health officials to keep up with progress and to experiment with new techniques results in "wasteful expenditure of tax funds."

Dr. Burney said although there is resistance to change on the local level, public health on the state and national levels has made noteworthy progress in adjusting to the changing needs.

More than one-half of the continent of Europe is less than 600 feet above sea level.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

HOYT BOWMAN

Hoyt (Babe) Bowman, 63, of Williamsport Route 2 died suddenly of a heart attack about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the state highway garage in Circleville.

Mr. Bowman had been an employe of the State Highway Department for the past 10 years.

He was born in Clarksburg, July 6, 1893, the son of Thomas and Rhuey Holcomb Bowman.

He lived most of his life in the Atlanta and Williamsport community.

He is survived by his wife, Sina Ater Bowman, whom he married in 1919.

Other survivors include: two sisters, Mrs. Beulah Ropp of Columbus and Mrs. Blanche Skinner of Atlanta; and a brother, Orville Bowman of Bellevue.

Funeral services will be held at the residence near Williamsport Saturday at 1:30 p. m., with the Rev. C. L. Kirschner of the Williamsport Methodist Church officiating.

Burial will be in Springlawn Cemetery at Williamsport under the direction of Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland.

Friends may call at the residence on Moler Lane after 6 p. m. Thursday.

British Medic Facing Trial For Murder

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Five magistrates today ordered Dr. John Bodkin Adams to stand trial on a charge of murdering a wealthy widow patient.

The 58-year-old society physician, asked if he had anything to say, replied:

"I am not guilty and I reserve my defense."

The chubby, Irish-born physician is charged with the murder of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81-year-old widow, in 1950. Scotland Yard has accused Dr. Adams also of murdering Alfred John Hullett and his wife, Gertrude Hullett.

The prosecution said Mrs. Morrell and Hullett were drugged to death and Mrs. Hullett driven to suicide and that Dr. Adams benefitted from their wills and gifts.

The magistrates' decision, similar in American legal procedure to the decision of a grand jury, came after a preliminary hearing lasting two weeks.

The magistrates themselves, three men and two women, retired for half an hour after prosecution and defense had summed up the case. They could have released the doctor or charged him with manslaughter.

Dr. Adams is held for trial on the specific charge of murdering Mrs. Morrell.

Oak Hill Man Held In Slaying

JACKSON (AP)—Jackson County authorities are holding a 55-year-old man in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clyde Bowling, 40, of nearby Oak Hill.

Jackson County Sheriff John Evans, identifying the man as Bill Hughes of Oak Hill, said Bowling died in Oak Hill Hospital Wednesday, 24 hours after he was shot in the abdomen with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Coroner Dr. Charles N. Gaskill said Hughes testified at an inquest Wednesday night that he ordered Bowling out of his house after an argument and that Bowling refused to leave. Hughes then got the shotgun from a bedroom. When he returned, Bowling grabbed the barrel of the gun and it discharged, Hughes said.

Social Security Visits End For City Under New Plan

Regional officials of the Social Security Office had important news today for the senior citizens of Pickaway County—and knew in advance it would be a disagreeable announcement for many.

From now on, officials explained, local residents who want to discuss their Social Security status will have to travel to one of the nearby cities. They can find the office open on any weekday at Columbus or Chillicothe, but if they want to go to Lancaster or Washington C. H. they will have to make the trip on a certain day of the week.

The once - every - two - weeks schedule of visits to Circleville is being discontinued, officials disclosed. Today's visit was the last to be held under the now discontinued schedule.

Starting two weeks hence—February 7—the Chillicothe office will go on a five-day week schedule to accommodate Social Security eligibles in that city, Circleville and other nearby communities and rural areas. The office in Chillicothe will be at 32 W. Main St.

* * *

OFFICIALS stressed that the decision to discontinue visits to Circleville did not originate with the regional branch. "It came all the way from Washington, D. C.," they said. "It's just something we didn't have anything to do with—except carry out the orders."

Purpose of the change they said is twofold: economy and efficiency.

Richard K. Cassidy, who has been coming here as a Social Security field representative for a long time, said the new plan actually will be more efficient. "I know a lot of people won't be able to agree, at least in the beginning," he said, "but the new arrangement will allow the person to talk directly to the person who will have a lot to do with the handling of his or her claim."

Heretofore, Cassidy pointed out, all such contact—through the Circleville visits—had to be through the field representative who came here once every two weeks. Cassidy added that he and other regional spokesmen know, however, that the new system will involve transportation problems for many.

"We've appreciated the way the local people have cooperated with thhe Circleville visits," he said. "And we want them to know that the new plan, which will actually be better for them, is ordered direct from Washington. We had nothing to do with setting it up.

"I myself want to thank the people in Circleville for the way they've cooperated with my visits. It's been a wonderful town."

* * *

ANY resident who does not wish to travel to Chillicothe can go or write to the regional office in Columbus, or travel—on certain days—to Lancaster or Washington C. H.

Under the current schedules, a Social Security representative goes to Lancaster on Thursday and to Washington C. H. on Wednesdays.

The Chillicothe office, to be open five days of the week, will do business from 8:45 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.

Once every two weeks, approximately 60 residents of Pickaway County have been coming to Circleville to talk with the Social Security representative, Cassidy estimated.

O'Neill Orders Big Slash In State Budget

et superintendent. O'Neill said he was not ready to name his new finance director.

Meanwhile, Charles M. Noble, Ohio's new highway chief, put the Buckeye state in a national race to build new long roads which will connect main cities and industrial areas.

At his first press conference, Noble said the state that wins out in building new roads will also come out first in building up industry, commerce and agriculture.

Noble, because he just moved to Ohio from New Jersey where he was chief engineer of the New Jersey Turnpike, cannot become Ohio highway director for a year.

He is highway consultant at $30,000 a year and will become highway director after one year. But he is still head man.

Noble praised the work of Samuel O. Linzell, who will be highway director a few more days while Noble is filled in on the department's work. He paid tribute to Linzell as a "great director" and said the department is known nationally for its good work.

Noble was asked for comments on Ohio's road building program that was submitted to O'Neill Jan. 15.

* * *

IT IS A $420 million program that will be spread out over a two-year period beginning July 1.

Noble said it is premature for him to comment on the program although there may have to be some juggling of projects.

The construction program which the governor is reviewing before presenting it to the state legislature includes 87 projects on which work would begin and 111 others for which right-of-way land would be purchased. The 87 construction projects would provide 368 miles of new roads, mainly in rural areas. They include 20 traffic bypasses and 22 projects inside cities for 24 miles of new roads.

No Change Seen In County Relief

A total of 1,236 cases were handled by the Pickaway County Division of Public Assistance in 1956, according to Division Director Pauline Roese. The department made total relief payments of $64,308.94, of which $30,957.74 was for medical and hospital care during 1956.

"The outlook for 1957 is that there won't be much of a change in payments or cases handled," Miss Roese said. "The picture is bright, with need for assistance decreasing as the weather becomes warmer and particularly when construction work begins again."

More than 30 percent of the total relief payments were made during the three winter months, with a high of $7,713.26 paid out last January. In contrast, payments during the Spring months fell to $12,079.41, or only 19 percent of the year's total.

The office's case load was also heaviest in January and February, with 141 and 132 cases respectively, and lightest during May and June during which time only 151 cases were handled.

Correction Made

In yesterday's list of Circleville Municipal Court cases, the name Lincoln Hoger should have read Donald Linkenhoger. He was fined $10 and costs for crossing a yellow line.

County Group Meets To Begin School Survey

State Official Tells Of Trend Toward Consolidated Units

A special survey of Pickaway County educational services and facilities was officially launched last night at the first meeting of the County Educational Survey Advisory Council, held in Common Pleas court room. Dr. William Chase of the Ohio University Center for Educational Research outlined the purpose and scope of the study.

He said that present county school conditions, population and enrollment trends, and financial resources would be examined during the survey. When the study is completed in June or early July, recommendations will be made concerning present and future educational needs in the county.

Opening the meeting Superintendent of County Schools George McDowell told the group how the various county boards of education had voted last Spring to request the Ohio University Center to make a study in the county.

W. Dwight Darling of the state department of education related the state's attitude toward school consolidation. He said that the policy has been to encourage formation of larger high school units in the state.

* * *

THE FUNCTION of the Ohio University Center was explained by Dr. Gilford Crowell, director of the center. He said that surveys of the type to be made in Pickaway County are financed by state funds from Ohio University. The surveys, advisory in nature, are made as a service to counties requesting them.

After the talks and a question-and-answer period, the following were elected as council officers: Edward Grigg of Circleville as temporary chairman, Judge William D. Radcliff of Williamsport as president, Postmaster Charles Walters of Circleville as vice president, and Mrs. Frank Graves of Pickaway Township as secretary.

The next meeting of the council will be held February 7 at 7:30 in the Common Pleas court room. The group will probably meet every second Thursday thereafter until the survey is completed.

Area Citizens Get Letter Of Thanks From State Official

Area residents who sent gifts to the Athens State Hospital during Christmas can rest assured that their efforts were very much appreciated.

This was made known today when Probate Judge Guy G. Cline received a letter from Dr. Hubert H. Fockler, superintendent of the state hospital, thanking all local persons who contributed.

Dr. Fockler's letter pointed out that the beautifully wrapped gifts greatly helped to make the Christmas season a happier one for persons confined to the hospital.

Ex-Con Admits Vandalism In Dayton Church

DAYTON (AP)—Police said a 30-year-old ex-convict has admitted causing damage estimated at $3,000 in Emmanuel Roman Catholic Church here.

Religious symbols were broken and scattered in the vandalism Jan. 5.

Robert Dean Sewell of Dayton said he became conscience-stricken Wednesday night and went to the parish house where he told his story to the Rev. John J. Rauscher and another priest

Officers said Sewell blamed the vandalism on whisky and "A little anger built up within me."

Sewell told them he had no bad feelings for the church or anyone connected with it, police said. Although not a Roman Catholic, he said he had attended services there.

Police said Sewell told them he served time at Mansfield Reformatory for burglary and auto theft and had been confined at Lima State Hospital for what he said was a "nervous condition."

Tropical Fungi Harming Rockets

WHITE SANDS, N. M. (AP)—A specialist in fungi says a careful watch is necessary to keep such plant growths off rockets.

Howard Aronson, experimenting with tropical fungi at this rocket test base, says the growth appear on missiles after unpacking in tropical climates, much like mold on bread.

He says such growths could interfere with tracking rockets in flight and also that the missiles might veer off course.

Area Farmers Reminded On Gas Tax Claims

County extension office officials reminded area farmers today that they are not required to file claims for refunds on Federal gasoline tax for the period ending July 1 to December 31 of 1956.

The law authorizing farmers to claim tax refunds was passed on April 2, 1956, and was made retro-active to January 1, 1956. The first claims filed were for the six months period of January 1, to June 30, 1956.

Spokesmen said that claims will be filed for a 12 month period beginning July 1 and ending June 30. The next claim may be filed after June 30, 1957.

Federal tax will be refunded at a rate of two cents per gallon on gasoline used on farms. Claims will not be allowed for gasoline used in custom work done for other farmers.

* * *

FARMERS who plan to file must keep sufficient records to enable the Internal Revenue Service to verify the accuracy of the claim.

No special form is required, but records should establish the total number of gallons purchased during the 12 month period of the claim, the number of gallons used for farming, and the number of gallons used by custom operators for farming purposes.

The new law providing refunds is in no way related to state taxes on gasoline.

O'Neill's Policy Message Due Next Monday

State Legislators Grow Anxious About Governor's Proposals

COLUMBUS (AP) — The coming weekend looks like an important one for the new administration of Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill.

In the next few days the new Republican governor will put the final polish on his "State-of-the-State" message, scheduled for delivery to a joint session of the Ohio Legislature Monday night.

The message is expected to contain much of O'Neill's proposed two-year program.

Restive lawmakers, after three dull weeks of marking time, want a look at the program and chance to "get the show on the road."

Everyone in the Legislature professes complete ignorance of the solutions O'Neill will propose for the state's problems — mostly financial. The professed ignorance extends down the line from veterans through the freshmen rank-and-file members.

* * *

MURMURS OF surprise have begun to drift through legislative corridors because a closer liaison has not yet developed between the all-Republican Legislature and the governor's office, which is in GOP hands for the first time in eight years.

Most lawmakers are inclined to the view that the new administration needs a few more days to get its feet on the ground, that present apparent uncertainties will turn into a confident approach to state problems in a few days. The administration, they point out, is only 10 days old.

The Legislature wound up its third abbreviated work week Wednesday by receiving 30 more bills. The total now stands at 171.

Two of Wednesday's bills dealt with a commonplace item — the driver's license.

One would require that a driver have it in his possession whenever he operates a motor vehicle.

The other would require that any violation of motor vehicle laws, whether the conviction is in a court of record or not, be posted on the offender's license and reported to the state registrar of motor vehicles.

The first proposal, by Rep. R. Martin Galvin (D-Lucas), would button up a loophole discovered recently by the attorney general.

* * *

A RECENT OPINION by that state official held that failure to carry a license while driving is not a violation of law.

The second, by Sen. Robert R. Shaw (R-Franklin) would make official notations of convictions of motor vehicle law violations in justice of peace courts and mayors' courts. As the law now stands, convictions are noted on licenses only when they arise in so-called "courts of record." These are the municipal courts, the courts of common pleas and on up.

Other proposals would:

Require venting of gas - fired heating units.

Require a 50-50 split of grade-crossing elimination costs between railroads and cities, present split is 85 per cent for cities and 15 for railroads.

Prohibit disciplinary suspension of state civil service employes without pay.

DANTE LAVELLI, above, professional football star with the Cleveland Browns will be the main speaker next Monday night when the Circleville Jaycees hold their annual Distinguished Service award honoring the outstanding young man of this community. Lavelli has been an outstanding end with the Browns for the past 11 seasons.

Jaycees Plan For Banquet Monday Night

Circleville Jaycees are completing plans for their annual Distinguished Service Award Banquet, to be held Monday night in the First EUB Church service center on E. Main St.

The banquet is held each year to honor the outstanding young man of this community. This year's award winner will be announced following special ceremonies at the dinner.

Main speaker for the evening will be Dante Lavelli, outstanding professional footballer with the Cleveland Browns. The veteran pro gridiron performer will speak on the "Life of a Professional Football Player".

Monday night's banquet goes along with national observance of Jaycee Week. Approximately 9,000 young men in Ohio are taking part with other Jaycees across the nation in celebrating the 36th birthday of the famous organization.

* * *

ACTIVE in 135 chapters throughout the state, Ohio Jaycees have set themselves the goal of striving for better communities and a stronger America through constructive civic projects.

Jaycee training in public service and in leadership today benefits a rapidly growing number of young Americans as the national membership approaches a quarter million.

Brief 'Spring' Is Ended By Gusty Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather persisted over most of the Midwest and spread into most of the eastern third of the country today, ending a brief spell of spring-like temperatures.

Temperatures in the eastern area dropped quickly as gusty winds brought in the icy air. Readings ranged from the 30s and 40s in the Gulf States to the teens in the Ohio Valley. Marks in the 30s and 40s also were reported in the Carolinas and ranged to around zero in New England. Southern Florida escapped the chill.

Sub-zero weather was indicated in sections of the northeast, some 40 to 50 degrees lower than Wednesday morning.

It was cold in most of the midwest, with readings below freezing.

Snow flurries or showers were in prospect during the day in most of the interior sections of the country from the Rockies westward to the coast and eastward across the northern plains into the upper Mississippi Valley and northern Great Lakes. Freezing rain, sleet or snow was indicated in most of the central plains eastward into the Ohio Valley.

Local Health Chiefs Given Warning

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service says resistance by local public health administrators to new ideas and concepts may force the state or federal government to take action.

Dr. Leroy Burney told the University of Michigan's institute on public health administration Wednesday that unwillingness of local health officials to keep up with progress and to experiment with new techniques results in "wasteful expenditure of tax funds."

Dr. Burney said although there is resistance to change on the local level, public health on the state and national levels has made noteworthy progress in adjusting to the changing needs.

More than one-half of the continent of Europe is less than 600 feet above sea level.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

HOYT BOWMAN

Hoyt (Babe) Bowman, 63, of Williamsport Route 2 died suddenly of a heart attack about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the state highway garage in Circleville.

Mr. Bowman had been an employe of the State Highway Department for the past 10 years.

He was born in Clarksburg, July 6, 1893, the son of Thomas and Rhuey Holcomb Bowman.

He lived most of his life in the Atlanta and Williamsport community.

He is survived by his wife, Sina Ater Bowman, whom he married in 1919.

Other survivors include: two sisters, Mrs. Beulah Ropp of Columbus and Mrs. Blanche Skinner of Atlanta; and a brother, Orville Bowman of Bellevue.

Funeral services will be held at the residence near Williamsport Saturday at 1:30 p. m., with the Rev. C. L. Kirschner of the Williamsport Methodist Church officiating.

Burial will be in Springlawn Cemetery at Williamsport under the direction of Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland.

Friends may call at the residence on Moler Lane after 6 p. m. Thursday.

British Medic Facing Trial For Murder

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Five magistrates today ordered Dr. John Bodkin Adams to stand trial on a charge of murdering a wealthy widow patient.

The 58-year-old society physician, asked if he had anything to say, replied:

"I am not guilty and I reserve my defense."

The chubby, Irish-born physician is charged with the murder of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81-year-old widow, in 1950. Scotland Yard has accused Dr. Adams also of murdering Alfred John Hullett and his wife, Gertrude Hullett.

The prosecution said Mrs. Morrell and Hullett were drugged to death and Mrs. Hullett driven to suicide and that Dr. Adams benefitted from their wills and gifts.

The magistrates' decision, similar in American legal procedure to the decision of a grand jury, came after a preliminary hearing lasting two weeks.

The magistrates themselves, three men and two women, retired for half an hour after prosecution and defense had summed up the case. They could have released the doctor or charged him with manslaughter.

Dr. Adams is held for trial on the specific charge of murdering Mrs. Morrell.

Oak Hill Man Held In Slaying

JACKSON (AP)—Jackson County authorities are holding a 55-year-old man in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clyde Bowling, 40, of nearby Oak Hill.

Jackson County Sheriff John Evans, identifying the man as Bill Hughes of Oak Hill, said Bowling died in Oak Hill Hospital Wednesday, 24 hours after he was shot in the abdomen with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Coroner Dr. Charles N. Gaskill said Hughes testified at an inquest Wednesday night that he ordered Bowling out of his house after an argument and that Bowling refused to leave. Hughes then got the shotgun from a bedroom. When he returned, Bowling grabbed the barrel of the gun and it discharged, Hughes said.

Social Security Visits End For City Under New Plan

Regional officials of the Social Security Office had important news today for the senior citizens of Pickaway County—and knew in advance it would be a disagreeable announcement for many.

From now on, officials explained, local residents who want to discuss their Social Security status will have to travel to one of the nearby cities. They can find the office open on any weekday at Columbus or Chillicothe, but if they want to go to Lancaster or Washington C. H. they will have to make the trip on a certain day of the week.

The once - every - two - weeks schedule of visits to Circleville is being discontinued, officials disclosed. Today's visit was the last to be held under the now discontinued schedule.

Starting two weeks hence—February 7—the Chillicothe office will go on a five-day week schedule to accommodate Social Security eligibles in that city, Circleville and other nearby communities and rural areas. The office in Chillicothe will be at 32 W. Main St.

* * *

OFFICIALS stressed that the decision to discontinue visits to Circleville did not originate with the regional branch. "It came all the way from Washington, D. C.," they said. "It's just something we didn't have anything to do with—except carry out the orders."

Purpose of the change they said is twofold: economy and efficiency.

Richard K. Cassidy, who has been coming here as a Social Security field representative for a long time, said the new plan actually will be more efficient. "I know a lot of people won't be able to agree, at least in the beginning," he said, "but the new arrangement will allow the person to talk directly to the person who will have a lot to do with the handling of his or her claim."

Heretofore, Cassidy pointed out, all such contact—through the Circleville visits—had to be through the field representative who came here once every two weeks. Cassidy added that he and other regional spokesmen know, however, that the new system will involve transportation problems for many.

"We've appreciated the way the local people have cooperated with thhe Circleville visits," he said. "And we want them to know that the new plan, which will actually be better for them, is ordered direct from Washington. We had nothing to do with setting it up.

"I myself want to thank the people in Circleville for the way they've cooperated with my visits. It's been a wonderful town."

* * *

ANY resident who does not wish to travel to Chillicothe can go or write to the regional office in Columbus, or travel—on certain days—to Lancaster or Washington C. H.

Under the current schedules, a Social Security representative goes to Lancaster on Thursday and to Washington C. H. on Wednesdays.

The Chillicothe office, to be open five days of the week, will do business from 8:45 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.

Once every two weeks, approximately 60 residents of Pickaway County have been coming to Circleville to talk with the Social Security representative, Cassidy estimated.

O'Neill Orders Big Slash In State Budget

et superintendent. O'Neill said he was not ready to name his new finance director.

Meanwhile, Charles M. Noble, Ohio's new highway chief, put the Buckeye state in a national race to build new long roads which will connect main cities and industrial areas.

At his first press conference, Noble said the state that wins out in building new roads will also come out first in building up industry, commerce and agriculture.

Noble, because he just moved to Ohio from New Jersey where he was chief engineer of the New Jersey Turnpike, cannot become Ohio highway director for a year.

He is highway consultant at $30,000 a year and will become highway director after one year. But he is still head man.

Noble praised the work of Samuel O. Linzell, who will be highway director a few more days while Noble is filled in on the department's work. He paid tribute to Linzell as a "great director" and said the department is known nationally for its good work.

Noble was asked for comments on Ohio's road building program that was submitted to O'Neill Jan. 15.

* * *

IT IS A $420 million program that will be spread out over a two-year period beginning July 1.

Noble said it is premature for him to comment on the program although there may have to be some juggling of projects.

The construction program which the governor is reviewing before presenting it to the state legislature includes 87 projects on which work would begin and 111 others for which right-of-way land would be purchased. The 87 construction projects would provide 368 miles of new roads, mainly in rural areas. They include 20 traffic bypasses and 22 projects inside cities for 24 miles of new roads.

No Change Seen In County Relief

A total of 1,236 cases were handled by the Pickaway County Division of Public Assistance in 1956, according to Division Director Pauline Roese. The department made total relief payments of $64,308.94, of which $30,957.74 was for medical and hospital care during 1956.

"The outlook for 1957 is that there won't be much of a change in payments or cases handled," Miss Roese said. "The picture is bright, with need for assistance decreasing as the weather becomes warmer and particularly when construction work begins again."

More than 30 percent of the total relief payments were made during the three winter months, with a high of $7,713.26 paid out last January. In contrast, payments during the Spring months fell to $12,079.41, or only 19 percent of the year's total.

The office's case load was also heaviest in January and February, with 141 and 132 cases respectively, and lightest during May and June during which time only 151 cases were handled.

Correction Made

In yesterday's list of Circleville Municipal Court cases, the name Lincoln Hoger should have read Donald Linkenhoger. He was fined $10 and costs for crossing a yellow line.

County Group Meets To Begin School Survey

State Official Tells Of Trend Toward Consolidated Units

A special survey of Pickaway County educational services and facilities was officially launched last night at the first meeting of the County Educational Survey Advisory Council, held in Common Pleas court room. Dr. William Chase of the Ohio University Center for Educational Research outlined the purpose and scope of the study.

He said that present county school conditions, population and enrollment trends, and financial resources would be examined during the survey. When the study is completed in June or early July, recommendations will be made concerning present and future educational needs in the county.

Opening the meeting Superintendent of County Schools George McDowell told the group how the various county boards of education had voted last Spring to request the Ohio University Center to make a study in the county.

W. Dwight Darling of the state department of education related the state's attitude toward school consolidation. He said that the policy has been to encourage formation of larger high school units in the state.

* * *

THE FUNCTION of the Ohio University Center was explained by Dr. Gilford Crowell, director of the center. He said that surveys of the type to be made in Pickaway County are financed by state funds from Ohio University. The surveys, advisory in nature, are made as a service to counties requesting them.

After the talks and a question-and-answer period, the following were elected as council officers: Edward Grigg of Circleville as temporary chairman, Judge William D. Radcliff of Williamsport as president, Postmaster Charles Walters of Circleville as vice president, and Mrs. Frank Graves of Pickaway Township as secretary.

The next meeting of the council will be held February 7 at 7:30 in the Common Pleas court room. The group will probably meet every second Thursday thereafter until the survey is completed.

Area Citizens Get Letter Of Thanks From State Official

Area residents who sent gifts to the Athens State Hospital during Christmas can rest assured that their efforts were very much appreciated.

This was made known today when Probate Judge Guy G. Cline received a letter from Dr. Hubert H. Fockler, superintendent of the state hospital, thanking all local persons who contributed.

Dr. Fockler's letter pointed out that the beautifully wrapped gifts greatly helped to make the Christmas season a happier one for persons confined to the hospital.

Ex-Con Admits Vandalism In Dayton Church

DAYTON (AP)—Police said a 30-year-old ex-convict has admitted causing damage estimated at $3,000 in Emmanuel Roman Catholic Church here.

Religious symbols were broken and scattered in the vandalism Jan. 5.

Robert Dean Sewell of Dayton said he became conscience-stricken Wednesday night and went to the parish house where he told his story to the Rev. John J. Rauscher and another priest

Officers said Sewell blamed the vandalism on whisky and "A little anger built up within me."

Sewell told them he had no bad feelings for the church or anyone connected with it, police said. Although not a Roman Catholic, he said he had attended services there.

Police said Sewell told them he served time at Mansfield Reformatory for burglary and auto theft and had been confined at Lima State Hospital for what he said was a "nervous condition."

Tropical Fungi Harming Rockets

WHITE SANDS, N. M. (AP)—A specialist in fungi says a careful watch is necessary to keep such plant growths off rockets.

Howard Aronson, experimenting with tropical fungi at this rocket test base, says the growth appear on missiles after unpacking in tropical climates, much like mold on bread.

He says such growths could interfere with tracking rockets in flight and also that the missiles might veer off course.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 32 years old and my husband is 50. We've been married 14 years, believing (most of that time) that we never could have a child. But I never stopped praying and now we are blessed with a beautiful little girl.

We just manage to get by on my husband's earnings, but I've always been completely happy, coming from a large family with so very much love for one another. And I love my husband and baby dearly.

I've never been a religious person, never attending church. Yet I've always had faith in God and prayed to Him in my own way.

Five months ago my mother passed away very suddenly. I can't explain in words what happened to me inside. It was as if the very foundations fell out of my world. Everyone says time will ease the pain; but I am sick inside and need God's help. I've realized with a jolt how little I know about religion.

Now I feel I'd like to change my faith and become a Roman Catholic. But I want to know and understand the faith, and somehow find the peace of God. I've read a few books on the subject, but I still don't feel I've learned enough to take the final step—though I deeply need to turn to religion and God for help.

R. Y.

DEAR R. Y.: Inasmuch as we come to life through our mother, who (for most of us) is also the main channel of our sustenance and solace and survival in infancy, it is inescapable that she would be "the very foundation" of our sense of well being. That is, if we are so fortunate as to have had a tolerably good experience of life, in early relation to her.

Thus, to anyone who has known a mother's presence and attentive care sufficiently to have grown deeply familiar with the "feel" of it, at the core of his existence—to that person, her death in later years is a bereavement different from any other in the field of human relations. As you say, it is as if "the very foundations of one's world" have crumbled.

Therefore, in the wake of a mother's death, it is natural that sons and daughters feel lost for a while, as if "the light in the window" had vanished from life; as if they are left in darkness, desolately in need of finding a new vital center of reference, in accommodating to the business of living.

This is apt to be true regardless of their age or degree of social matuity. But is more desperately felt, perhaps, by the more juvenile or dependent types; or by those grown-ups who haven't yet matured spiritually into "reborn" awareness of the eternal implications of human destiny. This awareness—of "what it's all about" — links up with "faith." And it tends to foster growing reliance upon one's own self, or rather one's inherent powers rooted in the soul's relationship to God.

It seems you are moving painfully towards an awakening of this sort. And since you incline towards the Roman Catholic church, on the hunch that its teachings may meet your needs, and be a "lamp to your feet" and a gateway to peace, I suggest that you read Frank Sheed's classic "A Map of Life" (Sheed & Ward publishers).

It is well written easily readable—a bluntly simple inclusive account of Roman Catholic doctrine as concerns the purpose of life. Also it is a small book, only 178 pages, which speaks to the mind rather than the emotions—hence should help to clarify your confusion, and bring you to a decision, one way or another.

Broadened Flexible System Is Urged

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson says the present flexible price support system—the key plan of the Eisenhower administration farm program—should be broadened "as a long range goal."

Such broadening is needed, he said, to permit "greater freedom for prices to change."

In a speech before the National Wool Growers Assn. convention, Benson said he advocates government price supports "not as an end in themselves but as a way of providing needed stability in agriculture."

CD Phone Toll Mystery Solved

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—At the edge of the village of Salineville there is a post of the Civilian Defense Ground Observer Corps. And it seemed odd that telephone tolls were being listed from the Salineville post to Bergholz, in the Jefferson County.

Cleo Mellott, police chief in Salineville, began making an investigation. It developed that a 16-year-old boy had been slipping into the post to make calls to a girl friend in Bergholz.

The chief collected $6.50 from the boy's parents to take care of the unofficial calls.

Spanish War Vet Details Medic's Aid

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A Spanish-American War veteran told a federal court jury Wednesday that Dr. John C. Coldiron cured him in two months of what he claimed was drug addiction.

Dr. Coldiron, a former Kentucky state senator, is on trial here on a five-count charge of illegally administering narcotics.

The veteran, 78-year-old Early Johnson of Combs, Ky., testified as a defense witness. He said that when he came to his daughter's home in Dayton in 1955, he was addicted to the use of morphine. Dr. Coldiron cured him in two months, Johnson added.

The daughter, Mrs. Alma Thompson, gave testimony supporting her father's statement.

Dr. Edward Geiser of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Cincinnati testified that Johnson was not an addict.

Other testimony brought out that Dr. Coldiron had been paid by the VA to treat Johnson, but that the 59-year-old Dayton physician did not report to the VA that the treatment was for drug addiction.

Mrs. Anna Gossett of Dayton also testified Wednesday that Dr. Coldiron had cured her of drug addiction.

The government says Dr. Coldiron administered narcotics to satisfy the cravings of addicts.

Several more defense witnesses are to testify today.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 32 years old and my husband is 50. We've been married 14 years, believing (most of that time) that we never could have a child. But I never stopped praying and now we are blessed with a beautiful little girl.

We just manage to get by on my husband's earnings, but I've always been completely happy, coming from a large family with so very much love for one another. And I love my husband and baby dearly.

I've never been a religious person, never attending church. Yet I've always had faith in God and prayed to Him in my own way.

Five months ago my mother passed away very suddenly. I can't explain in words what happened to me inside. It was as if the very foundations fell out of my world. Everyone says time will ease the pain; but I am sick inside and need God's help. I've realized with a jolt how little I know about religion.

Now I feel I'd like to change my faith and become a Roman Catholic. But I want to know and understand the faith, and somehow find the peace of God. I've read a few books on the subject, but I still don't feel I've learned enough to take the final step—though I deeply need to turn to religion and God for help.

R. Y.

DEAR R. Y.: Inasmuch as we come to life through our mother, who (for most of us) is also the main channel of our sustenance and solace and survival in infancy, it is inescapable that she would be "the very foundation" of our sense of well being. That is, if we are so fortunate as to have had a tolerably good experience of life, in early relation to her.

Thus, to anyone who has known a mother's presence and attentive care sufficiently to have grown deeply familiar with the "feel" of it, at the core of his existence—to that person, her death in later years is a bereavement different from any other in the field of human relations. As you say, it is as if "the very foundations of one's world" have crumbled.

Therefore, in the wake of a mother's death, it is natural that sons and daughters feel lost for a while, as if "the light in the window" had vanished from life; as if they are left in darkness, desolately in need of finding a new vital center of reference, in accommodating to the business of living.

This is apt to be true regardless of their age or degree of social matuity. But is more desperately felt, perhaps, by the more juvenile or dependent types; or by those grown-ups who haven't yet matured spiritually into "reborn" awareness of the eternal implications of human destiny. This awareness—of "what it's all about" — links up with "faith." And it tends to foster growing reliance upon one's own self, or rather one's inherent powers rooted in the soul's relationship to God.

It seems you are moving painfully towards an awakening of this sort. And since you incline towards the Roman Catholic church, on the hunch that its teachings may meet your needs, and be a "lamp to your feet" and a gateway to peace, I suggest that you read Frank Sheed's classic "A Map of Life" (Sheed & Ward publishers).

It is well written easily readable—a bluntly simple inclusive account of Roman Catholic doctrine as concerns the purpose of life. Also it is a small book, only 178 pages, which speaks to the mind rather than the emotions—hence should help to clarify your confusion, and bring you to a decision, one way or another.

M. H.

Broadened Flexible System Is Urged

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson says the present flexible price support system—the key plan of the Eisenhower administration farm program—should be broadened "as a long range goal."

Such broadening is needed, he said, to permit "greater freedom for prices to change."

In a speech before the National Wool Growers Assn. convention, Benson said he advocates government price supports "not as an end in themselves but as a way of providing needed stability in agriculture."

CD Phone Toll Mystery Solved

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—At the edge of the village of Salineville there is a post of the Civilian Defense Ground Observer Corps. And it seemed odd that telephone tolls were being listed from the Salineville post to Bergholz, in the Jefferson County.

Cleo Mellott, police chief in Salineville, began making an investigation. It developed that a 16-year-old boy had been slipping into the post to make calls to a girl friend in Bergholz.

The chief collected $6.50 from the boy's parents to take care of the unofficial calls.

Spanish War Vet Details Medic's Aid

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A Spanish-American War veteran told a federal court jury Wednesday that Dr. John C. Coldiron cured him in two months of what he claimed was drug addiction.

Currently Corn is King Of The Canned Vegetables. In honor of this King, January 23 to February 2 has been proclaimed as "case o' canned corn week".

Thanks to a Summer of perfect growing conditions, the 1956 corn crop was exceptionally fine and plentiful. The canning industry processed three out of every four pounds of the 1956 crop compared to two out of three pounds of last year's crop.

Consumer Specialists in Extension at Ohio State University, Columbus, report that in 1955 the pack of canned corn totaled 24 million cases, and in 1956, 36 million. As a result the canned goods shelves of most grocery stores are reflecting the supply.

This vegetable shares the vegetable shelf with 36 other products from artichokes to water chestnuts. It accounts for about 14 percent of the total canned vegetable pack and ranks with peas, tomatoes, and green beans in total pack size.

Canned Corn provides creative cooks with a part of the garden on their pantry shelves — a garden with the hard work of preparation already done.

Both white and yellow corn are available in either the whole kernel or cream style. On the basis of nutritive value and servings available, the cream style pack is slightly more concentrated than the whole kernel form.

* * *

Corn is packed in a variety of sizes but the common size is the "300" which makes three to four servings.

Labels on canned corn not only tell that name of the product, net weight of container, and name and address of the packer, which they must tell, but also often give a variety of additional information to enable the consumer to make best use of the product. For example, many packers print recipes for preparing can contents along with specific descriptive information about the particular kind of food in the can. This is helpful to the housewife and is handy besides. Any optional ingredients which have been added, such as peppers in the corn, must be stated on the label.

Corn is the cereal most closely associated with America and is native to this hemisphere. The first white settlers quickly learned from their Indian neighbors to grow and prepare it.

An interesting Indian myth explains the origin of this vegetable from the cereal group of foods that contains a large amount of starch and an amount of protein that is at least above the average for food materials in common use.

At the rate most people go in these modern streamlined Busy-Busy days, there is need for a lot of support for energy which can be supplied by corn — one of the richest sources of starch energy.

Corn, like rice, is often served as a vegetable with meat in place of such starchy vegetables as potatoes and beans.

* * *

If one would pause to analyze their surroundings they would find that we are dependent on corn products in some form practically every minute of the day. It may be sugar, syrup, oils, starch, flour, meal and such. Everyone of those items called Pill, has starch as a filler or sugar as a coating — or both.

Corn really is King-like any time of the year as it can be worn and eaten, and used in a varied number of ways. A synthetic fabric fiber called Vicara is made from the protein or zein of corn.

So let's all show our appreciation of corn by going shopping for several cans, if not a case, and using the product in soups, chowders, puddings, fritters, succotash, souffles, or just plain corn.

Remember, those labels on the cans may inspire a new and different way of preparation. They are the windows through which customers can see what is inside the can.

To help balance the diet, let's also shop for Cauliflower, Grapefruit, Chuck Roast, Eggs, Purple Plums, and Apples. Ohio Apples—especially Rome Beauty, Stayman and Jonathan varieties — are in good supply in most areas.

Deer Carcass Law Change Is Sought

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Harrison County Democrat has proposed a bill in the Ohio House that would give the motorist who kills a deer on the highway the right to consume the carcass.

The bill, introduced Wednesday by Rep. Arthur H. Milleson, specifies, however, that the deer meat be consumed "only within the (motorist's) immediate family."

This means, in effect, that you couldn't invite guests over to help your family eat the deer.

Under present law, the carcass of a deer killed by a car is turned over to local game protectors who give it to a public institution for consumption.

Cattle Group Holds Meeting At Lancaster

The Buckeye Polled Hereford Association held its first dinner meeting of 1957 in Hotel Lancaster.

Events of the evening included appointment of committees for the coming year by President A. C. Hunsinger. Committees elected were as follows:

C. M. Maxson, Laurelville, chairman of shows and sales; Henry Hanns, Zanesville, chairman of the finance committee; and C. E. Knowlton, Bellefontaine, chairman of the banquet committee.

A main event for the association will be a Spring Show and Sale to be held at Springfield March 20-21.

* * *

THE SHOW will be held on the first day. The sale will be conducted in the afternoon of the second day, with Jewett Fulkerson serving as auctioneer.

On April 20, the association will hold a consignment sale at the Zanesville Fairgrounds. A. W. Hamilton will be the auctioneer.

An annual bull sale is scheduled for April 27 in Springfield with Emerson Marting working as auctioneer.

This year during the Hereford Beef Cattle show at the Ohio State Fair, the association will offer $250 to any breeder showing a grand champion steer providing it is a polled hereford.

Nasser Planning Tight Canal Control

CAIRO (AP)—An Egyptian editor whose writing frequently reflects President Nasser's thinking wrote Wednesday that "if and when" the Suez Canal is reopened, all ships must pay tolls to Egypt.

Editor Mohamed Heikal also wrote that Egypt will halt canal clearance work unless Israel withdraws from the Gaza Strip and the Sinai Peninsula coast along the gulf of Aqaba.

Turncoat GI Turns His Back On Parents After Squabble

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Arlie Pate, an American prisoner who chose three years in Red China at the close of Korean fighting, has turned his back on home again—this time over a row with his father.

The 26-year-old turncoat GI left the family farm near Carbondale late Tuesday vowing he'd "never see the place again."

He took his 17-year-old brother, Donald, with him and left for St. Louis.

Sheriff Howard Cheatham had arrested Pate earlier in the evening on an assault charge filed by his father, Daniel H. Pate, 54.

The elder Pate, both eyes blackened, told Cheatham his son had given him a severe beating but did not disclose the nature of their difference.

At the sheriff's office, Arlie bargained with his father. "If you'll drop the charges, I'll leave here and never see you and the farm again," Cheatham quoted him as saying.

The father agreed. Pate returned to the farm and he and Donald packed a bag. They hiked to Murphysboro and there hailed cab driver H. T. Wright who drove them to St. Louis. Wright said his fare for the 80-mile trip was $32.

Pate was one of 21 American prisoners who originally refused repatriation when peace came to Korea in 1953.

He got homesick last fall and the Red Chinese allowed him to leave. He negotiated a $636 loan from the U. S. State Department and made the trip home by plane, arriving at the family farm Dec. 6.

Probably his only satisfactory answer to why he returned came when he hugged his mother and told newsmen: "This is the reason."

About his three years with the Reds, he commented only that he'd been "curious."

The Pate farm is a hilly 78-acres. Only about half is open to cultivation. Arlie's ailing father worked the place last year behind a team of 20-year-old horses.

The family had visions during that long night waiting for Arlie's arrival. The farm mortgage would be paid off in May. "After that," the father predicted, "me and the boys are going to so dome fixing up."

But the only progress reports available on Arlie following his return came from county law officers summoned to settle barroom disputes in which he was involved.

On and after this date I will not be responsible for debts contracted by anyone other than myself. Harry Mettler.

Deer Carcass Law Change Is Sought

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Harrison County Democrat has proposed a bill in the Ohio House that would give the motorist who kills a deer on the highway the right to consume the carcass.

The bill, introduced Wednesday by Rep. Arthur H. Milleson, specifies, however, that the deer meat be consumed "only within the (motorist's) immediate family."

This means, in effect, that you couldn't invite guests over to help your family eat the deer.

Under present law, the carcass of a deer killed by a car is turned over to local game protectors who give it to a public institution for consumption.

Cattle Group Holds Meeting At Lancaster

The Buckeye Polled Hereford Association held its first dinner meeting of 1957 in Hotel Lancaster.

Events of the evening included appointment of committees for the coming year by President A. C. Hunsinger. Committees elected were as follows:

C. M. Maxson, Laurelville, chairman of shows and sales; Henry Hanns, Zanesville, chairman of the finance committee; and C. E. Knowlton, Bellefontaine, chairman of the banquet committee.

A main event for the association will be a Spring Show and Sale to be held at Springfield March 20-21.

* * *

THE SHOW will be held on the first day. The sale will be conducted in the afternoon of the second day, with Jewett Fulkerson serving as auctioneer.

On April 20, the association will hold a consignment sale at the Zanesville Fairgrounds. A. W. Hamilton will be the auctioneer.

An annual bull sale is scheduled for April 27 in Springfield with Emerson Marting working as auctioneer.

This year during the Hereford Beef Cattle show at the Ohio State Fair, the association will offer $250 to any breeder showing a grand champion steer providing it is a polled hereford.

Nasser Planning Tight Canal Control

CAIRO (AP)—An Egyptian editor whose writing frequently reflects President Nasser's thinking wrote Wednesday that "if and when" the Suez Canal is reopened, all ships must pay tolls to Egypt.

Editor Mohamed Heikal also wrote that Egypt will halt canal clearance work unless Israel withdraws from the Gaza Strip and the Sinai Peninsula coast along the gulf of Aqaba.

Turncoat GI Turns His Back On Parents After Squabble

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Arlie Pate, an American prisoner who chose three years in Red China at the close of Korean fighting, has turned his back on home again—this time over a row with his father.

The 26-year-old turncoat GI left the family farm near Carbondale late Tuesday vowing he'd "never see the place again."

He took his 17-year-old brother, Donald, with him and left for St. Louis.

Sheriff Howard Cheatham had arrested Pate earlier in the evening on an assault charge filed by his father, Daniel H. Pate, 54.

The elder Pate, both eyes blackened, told Cheatham his son had given him a severe beating but did not disclose the nature of their difference.

At the sheriff's office, Arlie bargained with his father. "If you'll drop the charges, I'll leave here and never see you and the farm again," Cheatham quoted him as saying.

The father agreed. Pate returned to the farm and he and Donald packed a bag. They hiked to Murphysboro and there hailed cab driver H. T. Wright who drove them to St. Louis. Wright said his fare for the 80-mile trip was $32.

Pate was one of 21 American prisoners who originally refused repatriation when peace came to Korea in 1953.

He got homesick last fall and the Red Chinese allowed him to leave. He negotiated a $636 loan from the U. S. State Department and made the trip home by plane, arriving at the family farm Dec. 6.

Probably his only satisfactory answer to why he returned came when he hugged his mother and told newsmen: "This is the reason."

About his three years with the Reds, he commented only that he'd been "curious."

The Pate farm is a hilly 78-acres. Only about half is open to cultivation. Arlie's ailing father worked the place last year behind a team of 20-year-old horses.

The family had visions during that long night waiting for Arlie's arrival. The farm mortgage would be paid off in May. "After that," the father predicted, "me and the boys are going to so dome fixing up."

But the only progress reports available on Arlie following his return came from county law officers summoned to settle barroom disputes in which he was involved.

On and after this date I will not be responsible for debts contracted by anyone other than myself. Harry Mettler.

NEWSPRINT PRICE GOUGE

CANADIAN paper industry, supplier of most American newspapers, seems bent on killing some at least of the geese that have been laying its golden eggs.

A new increase in newsprint prices is announced for March 1 by three of the largest companies. Others are expected to fall in line as usual.

Considerably more than one-third of the cost of publishing the average large city newspaper, even now, goes for newsprint. Other costs have been soaring and for an unknown but surely not negligible number of American newspapers, the new rise in paper prices can be the equivalent of a death sentence.

The Canadian industry's price policies betray the suspicious characteristics of collusion. Canada accounts for almost 60 per cent of the world's supply of newsprint, and four-fifths of the Canadian output is used in this country.

There are other sources to which American newspapers can turn but none adequate, or big enough, to threaten Canada's monopoly of this market.

The industry complains of its own costs but soft pedals the fact that profits are currently highest in history. Its methods recall the officially supported British monopoly that in the 1920s boosted natural rubber prices to $1.20 a pound. That monopoly finally was broken by the wartime development of synthetics.

Similar answers have been sought in this country to the paper monopoly. So far, however, experiments in making newsprint from farm and forest wastes have been disappointing.

The newsprint squeeze is frowned on by the Canadian government and is suspected of violating that government's anti-monopoly laws. Perhaps the best hope, though a painful one, lies with the industry's eventual discovery that its pricing policies are hurtful to itself.

NO 'FREE' METER TIME?

AN INVENTOR has come up with a new device to trap the nickels and dimes of the curb parker. It is an electric-eye parking meter that leaves no "free time" on the meter when a car leaves.

When a parked car is driven away, the electric eye flips the timer back to zero and every new parker has to begin all over again. They cannot use time left by the first parker.

The perpetrator of this 'monstrosity' is one John E. Jones, an electronic inventor of Culver City, Calif. San Francisco found that it could increase its parking revenue more than 50 per cent by using the device. This is not small change.

Parking meters, originally installed in most cities to discourage all-day parking and make parking space available to a larger number of motorists, are now being regarded more and more as revenue-raising gadgets. Whenever new models are installed, the object is to e x t r a c t more change from parkers.

Despite the monetary advantges to most cities apparent in his latese device, and despite whatever logic such a system involves, most cities would be well advised to resist the temptation to increase revenue. If there is anything less likely to generate warm public relations for any city, it does not come readily to mind.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It is a function of government to evaluate information that comes from many sources and to base policy upon a realistic appraisal of data. When those whose function it is to make such an evaluation are conditioned by their prejudices and wishes to reach conclusions based upon nothing, it is likely that policies originating from such conclusions will be erroneous.

I am only a reporter with such limited facilities as are available to a private person; yet it was possible for me to write on January 22, 1947, in this column as follows:

"Arab strength is a reaction to European weakness. It is a definite reflex to the apparent breakup of the British Empire. When the British have left Egypt and India —and possibly Palestine—there is no telling what dimensions and characteristics this revived Moslem power will take on. It may sweep every vestige of the Judaic-Christain civilization before it in the Middle East and on the northern shores of the Mediterranean in Africa. And in Europe it will meet the power of Soviet Russia—as friend or foe, but not as the Defender of the Faith."

During the 10 years that have gone by since this paragraph was published, the course of events has moved with unerring precision as therein indicated. This does not mean that I am particularly wise or even well-informed; it does say that foresight can help those who need to evaluate available data to judge the trend of the times. At the time this was written Nehru was no great factor in world affairs; Nasser was an obscure military officer.

But it could not have been otherwise but that the breakup of the British Empire would lead to political convulsions in Asia and Africa and that a vacuum would appear because some areas of the Earth have a long history of being conquered and a short history of self-government. Egypt and India are such areas. It would be false to say that anything is not subject to change, but the likelihood is that countries accustomed to dependence will not long remain independent.

At any rate, those in charge of Soviet Policy have assumed that these potulates are correct and they have moved in to fill the vacuum created by the breakup of the British Empire. The American assumption has been that all nations and races are alike, that those who are dependent are only so because they have been conquered and exploited and that given an opportunity, all human beings prefer independence and liberty. There is no historic data to uphold such an emotional view.

Thus far, the Russians have been more correct and more successful as is evidenced by the role of Syria and Egypt and their ability to paralyze both Great Britain and France by confusing the issue in the United Nations. How skilfully the Russians managed this operation is made evident by the double-standard morality of the United Nations vis-vis Egypt and Hungary.

SYNOPSIS

Lieutenant Chad Endicott, a Civil War veteran, is irked when he is ordered from St. Louis to establish an Army post in hostile Dakota Territory. For he must leave his fiancee, Elizabeth Tipton, daughter of General Tipton, and postpone their marriage for at least a year. Before he leaves, Chad warns Alvin Stiner, a wealthy trader and his rival for Elizabeth, to respect their engagement or he will kill him when he returns. Myra, fun-loving wife of Major Otto Grunwald, is in love with Stiner, and, although she knows he prefers Elizabeth, helps him plot against Chad. Meanwhile, Chad sails up the treacherous Missouri river with an infantry company commanded by Colonel Randall, who is bringing his beautiful Spanish wife, Isabella. Chad doubts Randall's ability as a leader. As the river boat makes its way slowly upriver to Indian territory, Zack Cubberly, a weather-beaten scout for the Army, tells Chad what to expect from the warlike Sioux. Back in St. Louis, Stiner, after a reasonable wait, starts his campaign to win Elizabeth. At about this time, Chad and his troops experience their first difficulty—the boat gets stuck on a sandbar. Before they can get clear, a band of Indians attack. But Chad and his troops drive them off without casualties. Finally, after two months, they reach their destination. As they start to build their fort, the Indians threaten an attack. Sergeant Mullvane defies Chad with insubordination, and Chad challenges him to a fist fight to restore discipline.

CHAPTER 12

THE SUN was still showing above the horizon when Chad drifted down the slope toward the river. Mullvane had already gone on ahead. Chad went past the sawmill and into the timber, and a moment later reached an open space between the cottonwoods and the river. Willows made a thick screen along the edge of the stream.

Mullvane, stripped to the waist, was waiting for him. "I didn't think you'd show, Lieutenant. I was just making a bet with myself you didn't have the guts."

"I don't like you any better than you like me, Sergeant," Chad said, "but I'm neither prejudiced nor stupid enough to discount your courage. Why do you discount mine?"

"Because you're fixed up real pretty, General Tipton gonna be your father-in-law like he is," Mullvane said bitterly. "But me, I don't have the right woman." He tapped his barrel chest. "I'm a good soldier. They robbed me when they took my shoulder bars and I'll get 'em back if it's the last thing I do."

Chad stripped down. "If we were back in Jefferson Barracks, I'd have you rotting in the guardhouse. Up here, I can't. We need every man we've got, and we'll need a lot more next spring than we do now."

"When I get done with you, the Colonel will give me your bars because you won't be no good to him. Or to the General's girl, either."

Chad said, "I haven't told you why I'm here. You were an officer once, so you know how important discipline is. We can't have it, with you being insolent every time you open your mouth to me. I'm going to lick you, and after this you'll keep a decent tongue in your head, or I'll build a guardhouse and keep you in it until I get a chance to ship you back to St. Louis."

Mullvane threw his big head back and laughed. "Gonna lick me, are you, Lieutenant? All right, I'll make the bargain you want, but you've got to lick me first, and you ain't man enough to do it."

Mullvane started toward Chad. He was a bull of a man, shorter than Chad but a good deal heavier, his arms and back knotty with hard muscle. Chad saw the pleasure in the Irishman's eyes, the brutal anticipation, and he knew this was going to be more than he had counted on. He was fighting for his life.

They made a complete circle, each eyeing the other, and then Mullvane shouted, "Come on, Lieutenant. Open the ball."

Chad feinted with his left, and drove his right to the side of Mullvane's head. It was like hitting the trunk of a cottonwood. The Sergeant let out a great laugh. "That the best you can do, Lieutenant?" he roared, and drove at Chad.

They traded blow for blow. There was no sound except their feet in the sandy soil, the thud of fists, the heavy pull of air into their lungs. Slowly Mullvane began to back up. Chad worked on his stomach and kidneys, having found out that Mullvane's head was harder than his own fists. The sergeant threw great, looping punches. Out of nowhere, one of them caught Chad on the side of the head and knocked him sprawling.

Mullvane let out a squall and threw himself forward. Chad brought his feet up and out, catching Mullvane in the head, the crack of boots on skull sounding like the fall of a great maul on a wedge. The Irishman's neck bent, his head swinging back against one shoulder, and he came down hard on his belly.

Chad was on Mullvane, his knees striking the sergeant in the small of the back, sledging him on the neck. Mullvane reared up on his hands and knees and fell sideways. Chad scrambled free, got up and fell and got up again, and backed away.

Mullvane was slow getting to his feet. Chad was on him before he was fully upright. Mullvane was hurt. He showed it in his face and his eyes. Chad rocked his head with rights and lefts, but Mullvane did not fall.

The man was a bear. He was bleeding from a dozen cuts, one eye was closed, his lips were puffy and bruised. Mullvane came toward him, his head rocked from one side to the other as Chad caught him with blow after blow. Mullvane threw a fist that missed, taking everything Chad had to give, then he scored with a right and Chad went down.

He started to get up, but Mullvane kicked him in the side and knocked him flat. He rolled and came up on his hands and knees. Again Mullvane gave him his boot, but this time Chad caught his foot and brought him down.

Chad was lunging toward him when the arrow whispered past to bury its point in the ground. Chad forgot Mullvane, forgot everything except that he was out here in the open, a target for every Sioux that was up there in the timber.

Mullvane, too, had seen the arrow, and now he was plunging toward the timber, calling, "Come on, Lieutenant." Chad got to his feet. A rifle cracked from somewhere beyond Mullvane, and Zack came running out of the trees and raced past Chad.

Chad lunged toward his revolver, pulled it out of the holster and whirled to see where Zack had gone. He stood there, the trees and sky and river all turning in front of him in a crazy blur. Chad leaned against a tree and wiped his sweaty face with his hand. There was blood on it when he looked at it. He found it hard to breathe, and now, with his back against the cottonwood, he wasn't sure whether he had the strength to stand by himself.

Mullvane said thickly, "You didn't lick me, Lieutenant."

Chad looked at Mullvane, who was sitting up, blood and sweat rolling down his face. Then Zack was there.

"You fools," he said. "You lunkheaded fools. Next time you want to fight, don't sneak off by yourself where the Sioux can cut you down."

"He says I didn't lick him," Chad said.

Zack laughed. "You look licked to me, Mullvane." He stopped. "Well, here comes the army."

For A Husband, Go To Dixie

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That ladies seeking a husband may find the best hunting in the United States in the South.

Census figures show, five of six women of marriageable age already have landed a man there, but one of every four men is still single. Maybe it's because he takes snuff.

That soap is believed to have first come into limited use about the time of Christ. Infant mortality today is lowest in countries having the largest per capita use of soap.

That the $20 bill is the only one that has a picture of the White House on it. It also bears the portrait of Andy Jackson, a Democratic President, but Democrats complain only Republicans can afford to see it.

That the mountain goat is perhaps the only horned mammal that regularly sits on its haunches. This item, I know, will bring me 816 letters from secretaries saying, "How about the old goat I work for? He does nothing but sit on his haunches, and if he doesn't have horns, he ought to!"

That an Iowa farmer named Don Radda grew a record corn stalk—31 feet 3 inches . . . . or nearly twice the height of the average Texan.

That Rosalind Russell, chosen one of the world's best-dressed women, has 18 changes of costume as "Aunt Mame" in the Broadway show. "That beats me by three," says my wife. "I've had 15 changes in the 19 years since I married you for a steady living."

That Col. Jim Bowie, who invented a new outdoor carving knife and died in the Alamo, was the dandy of the frontier. In his wardrobe were 40 shirts, 22 morning coats, 6 evening jackets, 4 capes, a silk top hat, and 3 buckskin shirts. On hunting trips he had all 3 buckskin shirts washed daily.

That the one question most often asked me by strange women at parties is, "Why doesn't the baseball umpire hold up his left hand to indicate a ball, just as he does his right hand to call a strike?" The only reason I can think of is that umpires probably need to keep the fingers of one hand free to count with.

DIET AND HEALTH

Are Peaceful Slumbers A Matter Of Habit?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A GOOD night's sleep might simply be a matter of habit.

Unconsciously you build up to peaceful slumber through your regular night-time routine, but a break in this routine might mean the difference between restful sleep and a night of fretful tossing and turning.

As Dr. Henry Dantzig explains in, "Blue Print for Health," getting ready for bedtime may be part of a conditioned reflex or compulsion complex which establishes a nightly pattern. Your routines become habits. Without them, you might not sleep well.

Scheduled Train

Even though you're not aware that you're sleepy, the rumble of a scheduled train or the blowing of a factory whistle might be the signal for you to retire.

Dr. Dantzig advises that you follow your usual routines, since breaking them might give you the feeling that you have forgotten something. This feeling, as you well know, is apt to disturb your sleep.

Complete Tasks

If you're in the habit of checking the doors to see if they are locked, making sure the gas jets on the kitchen range are off and going to the basement to bank the furnace each evening, be sure you complete each task before retiring.

If you men customarily shave before you go to bed, don't let it go till morning. You're apt to worry all night about this additional chore facing you upon arising.

You women who usually put up your hair, and make certain cosmetic preparations before going to bed, should follow this routine nightly.

Accustomed Routine

Reading your newspaper or listening to a particular news broadcast might be part of your routine.

Raiding the refrigerator might be a habit, too. This, within reason, is all right. The type of food or drink taken before bedtime is not too important. Medically, there is no reason for not eating or drinking before retiring.

But don't overeat. Gorging yourself can give you indigestion, and that can prevent a good night's sleep.

If you habitually "count sheep" in order to get to sleep, it's probably a good idea to continue. Even the practice of self-hypnosis or auto-suggestion should be continued if it is successful.

The important thing to remember is to do the things you usually do.

NEWSPRINT PRICE GOUGE

CANADIAN paper industry, supplier of most American newspapers, seems bent on killing some at least of the geese that have been laying its golden eggs.

A new increase in newsprint prices is announced for March 1 by three of the largest companies. Others are expected to fall in line as usual.

Considerably more than one-third of the cost of publishing the average large city newspaper, even now, goes for newsprint. Other costs have been soaring and for an unknown but surely not negligible number of American newspapers, the new rise in paper prices can be the equivalent of a death sentence.

The Canadian industry's price policies betray the suspicious characteristics of collusion. Canada accounts for almost 60 per cent of the world's supply of newsprint, and four-fifths of the Canadian output is used in this country.

There are other sources to which American newspapers can turn but none adequate, or big enough, to threaten Canada's monopoly of this market.

The industry complains of its own costs but soft pedals the fact that profits are currently highest in history. Its methods recall the officially supported British monopoly that in the 1920s boosted natural rubber prices to $1.20 a pound. That monopoly finally was broken by the wartime development of synthetics.

Similar answers have been sought in this country to the paper monopoly. So far, however, experiments in making newsprint from farm and forest wastes have been disappointing.

The newsprint squeeze is frowned on by the Canadian government and is suspected of violating that government's anti-monopoly laws. Perhaps the best hope, though a painful one, lies with the industry's eventual discovery that its pricing policies are hurtful to itself.

NO 'FREE' METER TIME?

AN INVENTOR has come up with a new device to trap the nickels and dimes of the curb parker. It is an electric-eye parking meter that leaves no "free time" on the meter when a car leaves.

When a parked car is driven away, the electric eye flips the timer back to zero and every new parker has to begin all over again. They cannot use time left by the first parker.

The perpetrator of this 'monstrosity' is one John E. Jones, an electronic inventor of Culver City, Calif. San Francisco found that it could increase its parking revenue more than 50 per cent by using the device. This is not small change.

Parking meters, originally installed in most cities to discourage all-day parking and make parking space available to a larger number of motorists, are now being regarded more and more as revenue-raising gadgets. Whenever new models are installed, the object is to e x t r a c t more change from parkers.

Despite the monetary advantges to most cities apparent in his latese device, and despite whatever logic such a system involves, most cities would be well advised to resist the temptation to increase revenue. If there is anything less likely to generate warm public relations for any city, it does not come readily to mind.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It is a function of government to evaluate information that comes from many sources and to base policy upon a realistic appraisal of data. When those whose function it is to make such an evaluation are conditioned by their prejudices and wishes to reach conclusions based upon nothing, it is likely that policies originating from such conclusions will be erroneous.

I am only a reporter with such limited facilities as are available to a private person; yet it was possible for me to write on January 22, 1947, in this column as follows:

"Arab strength is a reaction to European weakness. It is a definite reflex to the apparent breakup of the British Empire. When the British have left Egypt and India —and possibly Palestine—there is no telling what dimensions and characteristics this revived Moslem power will take on. It may sweep every vestige of the Judaic-Christain civilization before it in the Middle East and on the northern shores of the Mediterranean in Africa. And in Europe it will meet the power of Soviet Russia—as friend or foe, but not as the Defender of the Faith."

During the 10 years that have gone by since this paragraph was published, the course of events has moved with unerring precision as therein indicated. This does not mean that I am particularly wise or even well-informed; it does say that foresight can help those who need to evaluate available data to judge the trend of the times. At the time this was written Nehru was no great factor in world affairs; Nasser was an obscure military officer.

But it could not have been otherwise but that the breakup of the British Empire would lead to political convulsions in Asia and Africa and that a vacuum would appear because some areas of the Earth have a long history of being conquered and a short history of self-government. Egypt and India are such areas. It would be false to say that anything is not subject to change, but the likelihood is that countries accustomed to dependence will not long remain independent.

At any rate, those in charge of Soviet Policy have assumed that these potulates are correct and they have moved in to fill the vacuum created by the breakup of the British Empire. The American assumption has been that all nations and races are alike, that those who are dependent are only so because they have been conquered and exploited and that given an opportunity, all human beings prefer independence and liberty. There is no historic data to uphold such an emotional view.

Thus far, the Russians have been more correct and more successful as is evidenced by the role of Syria and Egypt and their ability to paralyze both Great Britain and France by confusing the issue in the United Nations. How skilfully the Russians managed this operation is made evident by the double-standard morality of the United Nations vis-vis Egypt and Hungary.

INSURANCE MILESTONE

A MILESTONE in the insurance business, and a portent of the nearness of the nuclear age, are some of the reactions expressed as a result of the formation of a Nuclear Insurance Rating Bureau to implement previously announced plans for pooled coverage of property risks in the atomic energy field.

Sponsors include more than 300 fire and casualty insurance companies, both stock and mutual. Their combined capacity will make it possible to insure an atomic risk for more than $50 million.

Nuclear power plants and other reactor installations, nuclear fuel element plants and nuclear fuel as such and other facilities involving substantial quantities of radiation are listed as some of the types of propert to be covered.

SYNOPSIS

Lieutenant Chad Endicott, a Civil War veteran, is irked when he is ordered from St. Louis to establish an Army post in hostile Dakota Territory. For he must leave his fiancee, Elizabeth Tipton, daughter of General Tipton, and postpone their marriage for at least a year. Before he leaves, Chad warns Alvin Stiner, a wealthy trader and his rival for Elizabeth, to respect their engagement or he will kill him when he returns. Myra, fun-loving wife of Major Otto Grunwald, is in love with Stiner, and, although she knows he prefers Elizabeth, helps him plot against Chad. Meanwhile, Chad sails up the treacherous Missouri river with an infantry company commanded by Colonel Randall, who is bringing his beautiful Spanish wife, Isabella. Chad doubts Randall's ability as a leader. As the river boat makes its way slowly upriver to Indian territory, Zack Cubberly, a weather-beaten scout for the Army, tells Chad what to expect from the warlike Sioux. Back in St. Louis, Stiner, after a reasonable wait, starts his campaign to win Elizabeth. At about this time, Chad and his troops experience their first difficulty—the boat gets stuck on a sandbar. Before they can get clear, a band of Indians attack. But Chad and his troops drive them off without casualties. Finally, after two months, they reach their destination. As they start to build their fort, the Indians threaten an attack. Sergeant Mullvane defies Chad with insubordination, and Chad challenges him to a fist fight to restore discipline.

CHAPTER 12

THE SUN was still showing above the horizon when Chad drifted down the slope toward the river. Mullvane had already gone on ahead. Chad went past the sawmill and into the timber, and a moment later reached an open space between the cottonwoods and the river. Willows made a thick screen along the edge of the stream.

Mullvane, stripped to the waist, was waiting for him. "I didn't think you'd show, Lieutenant. I was just making a bet with myself you didn't have the guts."

"I don't like you any better than you like me, Sergeant," Chad said, "but I'm neither prejudiced nor stupid enough to discount your courage. Why do you discount mine?"

"Because you're fixed up real pretty, General Tipton gonna be your father-in-law like he is," Mullvane said bitterly. "But me, I don't have the right woman." He tapped his barrel chest. "I'm a good soldier. They robbed me when they took my shoulder bars and I'll get 'em back if it's the last thing I do."

Chad stripped down. "If we were back in Jefferson Barracks, I'd have you rotting in the guardhouse. Up here, I can't. We need every man we've got, and we'll need a lot more next spring than we do now."

"When I get done with you, the Colonel will give me your bars because you won't be no good to him. Or to the General's girl, either."

Chad said, "I haven't told you why I'm here. You were an officer once, so you know how important discipline is. We can't have it, with you being insolent every time you open your mouth to me. I'm going to lick you, and after this you'll keep a decent tongue in your head, or I'll build a guardhouse and keep you in it until I get a chance to ship you back to St. Louis."

Mullvane threw his big head back and laughed. "Gonna lick me, are you, Lieutenant? All right, I'll make the bargain you want, but you've got to lick me first, and you ain't man enough to do it."

Mullvane started toward Chad. He was a bull of a man, shorter than Chad but a good deal heavier, his arms and back knotty with hard muscle. Chad saw the pleasure in the Irishman's eyes, the brutal anticipation, and he knew this was going to be more than he had counted on. He was fighting for his life.

They made a complete circle, each eyeing the other, and then Mullvane shouted, "Come on, Lieutenant. Open the ball."

Chad feinted with his left, and drove his right to the side of Mullvane's head. It was like hitting the trunk of a cottonwood. The Sergeant let out a great laugh. "That the best you can do, Lieutenant?" he roared, and drove at Chad.

They traded blow for blow. There was no sound except their feet in the sandy soil, the thud of fists, the heavy pull of air into their lungs. Slowly Mullvane began to back up. Chad worked on his stomach and kidneys, having found out that Mullvane's head was harder than his own fists. The sergeant threw great, looping punches. Out of nowhere, one of them caught Chad on the side of the head and knocked him sprawling.

Mullvane let out a squall and threw himself forward. Chad brought his feet up and out, catching Mullvane in the head, the crack of boots on skull sounding like the fall of a great maul on a wedge. The Irishman's neck bent, his head swinging back against one shoulder, and he came down hard on his belly.

Chad was on Mullvane, his knees striking the sergeant in the small of the back, sledging him on the neck. Mullvane reared up on his hands and knees and fell sideways. Chad scrambled free, got up and fell and got up again, and backed away.

Mullvane was slow getting to his feet. Chad was on him before he was fully upright. Mullvane was hurt. He showed it in his face and his eyes. Chad rocked his head with rights and lefts, but Mullvane did not fall.

The man was a bear. He was bleeding from a dozen cuts, one eye was closed, his lips were puffy and bruised. Mullvane came toward him, his head rocked from one side to the other as Chad caught him with blow after blow. Mullvane threw a fist that missed, taking everything Chad had to give, then he scored with a right and Chad went down.

He started to get up, but Mullvane kicked him in the side and knocked him flat. He rolled and came up on his hands and knees. Again Mullvane gave him his boot, but this time Chad caught his foot and brought him down.

Chad was lunging toward him when the arrow whispered past to bury its point in the ground. Chad forgot Mullvane, forgot everything except that he was out here in the open, a target for every Sioux that was up there in the timber.

Mullvane, too, had seen the arrow, and now he was plunging toward the timber, calling, "Come on, Lieutenant." Chad got to his feet. A rifle cracked from somewhere beyond Mullvane, and Zack came running out of the trees and raced past Chad.

Chad lunged toward his revolver, pulled it out of the holster and whirled to see where Zack had gone. He stood there, the trees and sky and river all turning in front of him in a crazy blur. Chad leaned against a tree and wiped his sweaty face with his hand. There was blood on it when he looked at it. He found it hard to breathe, and now, with his back against the cottonwood, he wasn't sure whether he had the strength to stand by himself.

Mullvane said thickly, "You didn't lick me, Lieutenant."

Chad looked at Mullvane, who was sitting up, blood and sweat rolling down his face. Then Zack was there.

"You fools," he said. "You lunkheaded fools. Next time you want to fight, don't sneak off by yourself where the Sioux can cut you down."

"He says I didn't lick him," Chad said.

Zack laughed. "You look licked to me, Mullvane." He stopped. "Well, here comes the army."

For A Husband, Go To Dixie

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That an Iowa farmer named Don Radda grew a record corn stalk—31 feet 3 inches . . . . or nearly twice the height of the average Texan.

That Rosalind Russell, chosen one of the world's best-dressed women, has 18 changes of costume as "Aunt Mame" in the Broadway show. "That beats me by three," says my wife. "I've had 15 changes in the 19 years since I married you for a steady living."

That the one question most often asked me by strange women at parties is, "Why doesn't the baseball umpire hold up his left hand to indicate a ball, just as he does his right hand to call a strike?" The only reason I can think of is that umpires probably need to keep the fingers of one hand free to count with.

DIET AND HEALTH

Are Peaceful Slumbers A Matter Of Habit?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A GOOD night's sleep might simply be a matter of habit.

Unconsciously you build up to peaceful slumber through your regular night-time routine, but a break in this routine might mean the difference between restful sleep and a night of fretful tossing and turning.

As Dr. Henry Dantzig explains in, "Blue Print for Health," getting ready for bedtime may be part of a conditioned reflex or compulsion complex which establishes a nightly pattern. Your routines become habits. Without them, you might not sleep well.

Scheduled Train

Even though you're not aware that you're sleepy, the rumble of a scheduled train or the blowing of a factory whistle might be the signal for you to retire.

Dr. Dantzig advises that you follow your usual routines, since breaking them might give you the feeling that you have forgotten something. This feeling, as you well know, is apt to disturb your sleep.

Complete Tasks

If you're in the habit of checking the doors to see if they are locked, making sure the gas jets on the kitchen range are off and going to the basement to bank the furnace each evening, be sure you complete each task before retiring.

If you men customarily shave before you go to bed, don't let it go till morning. You're apt to worry all night about this additional chore facing you upon arising.

You women who usually put up your hair, and make certain cosmetic preparations before going to bed, should follow this routine nightly.

Accustomed Routine

Reading your newspaper or listening to a particular news broadcast might be part of your routine.

Raiding the refrigerator might be a habit, too. This, within reason, is all right. The type of food or drink taken before bedtime is not too important. Medically, there is no reason for not eating or drinking before retiring.

But don't overeat. Gorging yourself can give you indigestion, and that can prevent a good night's sleep.

If you habitually "count sheep" in order to get to sleep, it's probably a good idea to continue. Even the practice of self-hypnosis or auto-suggestion should be continued if it is successful.

The important thing to remember is to do the things you usually do.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

L. R.: What can I do to remove moles from my neck? I have one about the size of my thumb.

Answer: Moles should be removed only by a physician, preferably a skin specialist or surgeon. Certain types of moles should be left alone. Your physician will determine whether or not removal is advisable in your case.

Solaqua Garden Club Has Meet

The Solaqua Garden Club held its monthly meeting in the Ashville Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Hott and devotionals were given by the Rev. Carl Groff.

Roll call was answered by the members naming the color of begonias they liked best. The club voted to give a cash donation to the March of Dimes.

A paper on the planting and caring of begonias was read by Mrs. Hott and followed by discussion.

Hostess Mrs. Walter Cummins, assisted by Mrs. Ben Vause and Mrs. Alfred Cook, served refreshments.

Use sirloin, club, or porterhouse steak for broiling, allowing one-third to one-half pound of meat for each serving.

Mrs. Robbins Gives Talk At Monday Club Meeting

Mrs. Kenneth Robbins was presented as the speaker for the evening at the meeting of Monday Club.

The session was held in the Trustees Room of the Library with the president, Mrs. Milton Patterson presiding.

A short business meeting preceded the program, and the following members were elected to the nominating committee: Mrs. George C. Barnes, Mrs. William N. Ulm and Mrs. C. E. Barr.

Mrs. Robbins' subject for the evening was entitled, "A Man With Bible and Scalpel."

Mrs. Robbins opened her paper by telling of the political campaign of 1844 and its famous slogan, 54-40 or fight.

She continued stating, "That this paper has nothing to do with the campaign, but rather to do with a woman, who was one of the first two women to cross the Rocky Mountains on horse back. It has to do with the lives of the two persons who were mainly responsible for the United States being able to assert in 1846 that by right of exploration and settlement the United States was entitled to what was then known as the "Oregon Country," and is today known as the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, the western portion of Montana and the southwestern corner of Wyoming.

"Marcus Whitman, the hero of this short sketch, was born September 4, 1802, in Rushville, N. Y. Narcissa Prentice Whitman, heroine, was born in Prattsburg, N. Y., sometime during the year 1808.

"Rushville and Prattsburg are situated in the southern part of the Finger Lake Region of the state of New York and are located in counties, contiquous to each other. The two localities were far enough apart, however, that these two persons never met until Marcus Whitman was engaged in the practice of the profession of medicine and Miss Prentice was in the profession of school teaching. Their meeting came about as an incident of their respective great interests and activities in the Presbyterian Church in the community of Angelica, N. Y., a very small community located in the immediate vicinity of Prattsburg.

"Both Miss Prentice and Mr. Whitman had decided to devote their lives to missionary work and christianizing of the Indians in the western part of North America.

"After they had decided to be married and devote their lives to the Indians, Dr. Whitman and the Rev. Samuel Parker made a trip to Oregon to determine the feasibility of establishing a mission post among the Indians of that locality.

"The Whitmans were accompanied to Oregon by Henry Spalding and his wife. The party left Liberty, Mo., on May 21, 1838, and arrived at the junction of the Snake and Columbia Rivers, September 2, 1838, a period of three months and nineteen days.

"Marcus and Narcissa Whitman had the first white American child born in the Northwest Country. The child was born March 14, 1837, and met death June 23, 1839, by drowning in the river that flowed by their home.

"At one time Mrs. Whitman had over 539 Indian children enrolled in her school, and while she was teaching them the rudiments of English and the Bible, they were teaching her the language of their tribe. Dr. Whitman had over 400 converted Indians, many of whom became sufficiently domesticated to move to the immediate vicinity of the land at the mission and worked at cultivating it under the direction of Dr. Whitman. In addition to his missionary work, he served as a physician for miles around his home to both the Indians and the white settlers.

"Marcus Whitman traveled back East to present to the Missionary Board the case of the workers in the field as to why missions should be maintained. In returning home he served as guide for the first large wagon caravan of people to cross the country overland to Oregon.

"With the advent of these new immigrants, the Indians became sullen and suspicious. It must be remembered that they had been pushed all the way to the Pacific Ocean, and as they looked out over it, they could not help wondering where they could go next. Being in this state of mind, and having been taken advantage of by a great many of the new immigrants, they arose in arms and killed, maimed and took prisoners amongst the missions. The Whitmans along with twelve other persons were brutally murdered in their home at Waiilatpu on November 29, 1847.

"Today the settlement of Waiilatpu has become the town of Whitman in the state of Washington and a monument is erected in commeration of their heroic efforts to save the Northwest Country for the United States of America. Also established in the town is a Presbyterian seminary by the name of Whitman College."

Film Highlights Grange Meeting

A film was the main feature for the regular meeting of Washington Grange.

The business session was conducted by F. R. Lands, Worthy Master.

The film featured during the program was entitled "Milestones of Motoring."

Refreshments were served to the 32 members and juveniles.

For the meeting of February 12 the Grange will go as a group to the Scioto Valley Grange meeting and present the rogram.

Chris Rihl Couple Possess Reminder Of Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Rihl have a beautiful fern to remind them of their wedding anniversaries.

The Rihls celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last November. When the couple was married, a large fern was given to them as a wedding gift by Mrs. Rihl's sister, Mrs. John C. Weaver of Circleville.

Mrs. Rihl has cared for the 50 year old plant and today it holds a place of honor in the couple's home.

Mrs. Robert Davis Feted At Party

Miss Elouise A. McClelland entertained with a party in honor of her sister's birthday at her home in Amanda.

Guest of honor for the event was Mrs. Robert Davis. The group presented Mrs. Davis with a lovely planter.

A color scheme of pink and white were used for the decorations, and the table was centered with pink carnations and white chrysanthemums.

Refreshments were served to: Mr. and Mrs. Burt Cook of South Bloomfield, Mr. and Mrs. George Haley, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burriss, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smallwood of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ashpaugh of Washington C. H.;

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hall of Buckeye Lake, Frances Strausbaugh, Philip Strausbaugh of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. McClelland, Leslie McClelland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and the hostess.

Cincinnati Recalling 1937 And 'Black Sunday' Flood

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was 20 years ago today that Cincinnati had its "Black Sunday."

The Ohio River suddenly surged toward its highest level in recorded history and two days later the river was to reach its all-time peak of 79.99 feet.

"Black Sunday," of course, wasn't confined to Cincinnati.

Days of rain and then snow sent the river to all time high levels Aurora and Evansville, Ind., Louisville, Ky., and other points along its course. It was flood that caused untold millions of dollars worth of damage and left thousands homeless. Loss of life was heavy but, oddly, there were only eight deaths in Cincinnati.

State national guard units, the U. S. Army and various relief agencies poured men and supplies into the flood-stricken area in a desperate effort to alleviate the suffering.

But that day just 20 years ago is the one Cincinnatians remember most vividly.

The river had been rising steadily for days and as the rains continued the weather bureau daily hiked its prediction of a flood crest.

On Saturday, Jan. 23 it appeared as if the end was in sight. The river was almost stationary at 72.8 feet as cold weather and snow seemed likely to bring an early crest.

Then came more rain and on Sunday the river stage surged upward again. A million and a half dollar fire broke out in the heavily industrial and flooded Camp Washington area. Street car service was suspended. Water service was cut off except for two two-hour periods a day and residents were ordered to boil all drinking water.

Electric current went out for a time in parts of the city.

On the bleak Sunday and the days that followed, factories, stores and theatres were closed. Citizens used springs, wells and tanks as sources of water.

It was estimated that on that Sunday and the following Monday one-tenth of the area of the city was directly hit by flood waters.

Bridges connecting Cincinnati with neighboring towns in Kentucky across the Ohio River were closed.

A shuttle train managed to make it across one railroad bridge to haul food and supplies to flood-stricken residents of the Kentucky cities.

All railroad service was halted at Cincinnati's Union Terminal as floodwaters swirled along Lincoln Park Drive, the wide street which is the approach to the terminal.

In the Associated Press office, the breakdown of electrical power knocked out teletype circuits on the evening of "Black Sunday." Roy Schneider, still in the AP's Cincinnati office, and Ben Ronsheim, now retired, manned Morse code circuits to keep news of the flood moving to the rest of the world.

Newspaper files show that the most popular items for sale were candles, being hawked by street salesmen, and rubber boots. Liquor stores were closed for days but beer was a popular commodity—not necessarily because it was alcoholic but because it could be used as a substitute for scarce drinking water.

And such was the situation all along the river. Food was short at Portsmouth. Louisville had no electric power and federal troops were pushed into that beleagured city. National guardsmen patrolled the Indiana side of the river. Evansville was without electric power and there was little or no heat in downtown establishments.

In Cincinnati there were 18 consecutive days on which the river exceeded the 52-foot flood stage.

As late as Jan. 19, there had been no indications of the disaster to come. Then it began to rise steadily.

On Jan. 22 the level reached 71.3 feet, exceeding the previous all-time record of 71.1 feet in 1884.

By that time bridges were being closed here. The levee broke at Lawrenceburg, Ind., and water flowed over the flood wall at Portsmouth, Ohio into the downtown district.

Jan. 23 was the day of false hope. With the river nearly stationary at 72.8 feet and cold weather moving in, the weather bureau forecast a crest of 73.5 feet. By that time the estimated flood damage in this area had been increased to five million dollars. It was estimated there were 75,000 persons homeless in Ohio, 35,000 in Indiana and 66,000 homeless was predicted for Kentucky.

And then came "Black Sunday" and the days of disaster.

Wylie Named Compensation Bureau Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chalmers P. Wylie, 36, new administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, will be sworn in to the $18,000-a-year post today.

Wylie, Columbus city attorney, was named to the state position by Gov. C. William O'Neill Wednesday. He will take over immediately. The bureau handles claims of injured workmen under the state-operated insurance plan.

A native of Norwich, Muskingum County, Wylie attended Otterbein College and Ohio State University and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

Joseph Scanlon, appointed administrator in 1955 by former Gov. Frank J. Lausche, resigned the post recently to become a Lausche aide in Washington. Lausche now serves as Ohio's Junior U. S. senator.

The Republican-dominated state Senate refused to confirm Scanlon's appointment.

Wylie, an assistant attorney general under Hugh S. Jenkins and O'Neill, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general in the May primary election.

He was elected Columbus city attorney, a post which pays $10,500 a year, in 1953. He recently was elected president of the Ohio Municipal League.

In the instance of Egypt, the United Nations was forceful; in the instance of Hungary, the United Nations has been cowardly and immobile.

The reason is that as regards Egypt, the United States continues to pursue a policy based upon the assumption that the Arabs ought to favor the West if they are guaranteed economic support. But apparently the Arabic mind does not crave independence but security and security takes the form of protection, the kind of protection they once got from Turkey, then from Great Britain and now from Soviet Russia.

It was possible to foresee that this would be so when the Arab League was organized in 1945 and received a subsidy from the United States.

The United States gave vent to a generosity which was not explainable by any previous experience in all of human history. Such generosity encouraged politicians to ask for more, all the time, and finally to ask for more without any strings attached, which really meant that they demanded the money for nothing. It was a wonderful, if unbelievable formula and stimulated ambitions among the rulers to try to get what they could from other countries as well.

Eventually they found that the Russians had much to give away, too. They gave arms, tanks, airplanes, instructors in revolution and encouragement to war. Against such gifts, what are farm surpluses?

State Department Defends Envoys

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has allied to the defense of the American ambassador abroad.

It rejected what it said are popular notions that he is "a diplomatic fashion plate" or "a man sent abroad to lie for his country."

Instead, it pictured him as an extremely hard working individual "on duty day and night" with responsibilities for maintaining peaceful relations in the world, with extensive administrative duties and often with the most difficult of conditions.

Medical Society's Action Questioned

PORT CLINTON (AP)—The Ottawa County health commissioner declared a policy of the county medical society is responsible for the fact that free Salk polio vaccine is not generally available to school children in the county.

This county supplied the first and second innoculations to first and second grade pupils a year ago last spring, but no groups have been vaccinated since.

Health Commissioner R. K. Evans said the medical society discussed the problem last spring and decided it was against dispensing free vaccine to any except the indigent.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roast beef and chicken will be featured in many of the nation's food markets this weekend.

The beef items, ranging from chuck to sirloin and porter house, are no surprise, for beef prices have been low lately. Indications are, in fact, that beef eaters can expect to have their favorite meat often in the next few weeks, for it's expected to remain plentiful and cheap.

The splurge on chickens is more unexpected, although chickens actually have not been in short supply for some time. They're advertised this week for stewing and frying both.

Turkey, ham and lamb also will be bargain specials in some stores, but pork is conspicuously absent in most places. Reason: price boosts in many areas, ranging from 2 cents to 10 cents and as much as 24 to 26 cents in certain places.

Most stores will present some familiar vetetable as the best buys—cabbage, onions and potatoes.

Potatoes from the fall crops were a shade higher, but still a good buy.

Beets, carrots, parsnips and white turnips also are on the good buy list. So are peppers, sweet potatoes and iceburg lettuce, although the latter is slightly more expensive this week.

Beans and celery are reported more expensive this week, along with cauliflower.

Oranges, tangerines and lemons are reported the best buys among the fruits.

There are about 10 billion cells in the human brain.

Cincinnati Recalling 1937 And 'Black Sunday' Flood

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was 20 years ago today that Cincinnati had its "Black Sunday."

The Ohio River suddenly surged toward its highest level in recorded history and two days later the river was to reach its all-time peak of 79.99 feet.

"Black Sunday," of course, wasn't confined to Cincinnati.

Days of rain and then snow sent the river to all time high levels Aurora and Evansville, Ind., Louisville, Ky., and other points along its course. It was flood that caused untold millions of dollars worth of damage and left thousands homeless. Loss of life was heavy but, oddly, there were only eight deaths in Cincinnati.

State national guard units, the U. S. Army and various relief agencies poured men and supplies into the flood-stricken area in a desperate effort to alleviate the suffering.

But that day just 20 years ago is the one Cincinnatians remember most vividly.

The river had been rising steadily for days and as the rains continued the weather bureau daily hiked its prediction of a flood crest.

On Saturday, Jan. 23 it appeared as if the end was in sight. The river was almost stationary at 72.8 feet as cold weather and snow seemed likely to bring an early crest.

Then came more rain and on Sunday the river stage surged upward again. A million and a half dollar fire broke out in the heavily industrial and flooded Camp Washington area. Street car service was suspended. Water service was cut off except for two two-hour periods a day and residents were ordered to boil all drinking water.

Electric current went out for a time in parts of the city.

On the bleak Sunday and the days that followed, factories, stores and theatres were closed. Citizens used springs, wells and tanks as sources of water.

It was estimated that on that Sunday and the following Monday one-tenth of the area of the city was directly hit by flood waters.

Bridges connecting Cincinnati with neighboring towns in Kentucky across the Ohio River were closed.

A shuttle train managed to make it across one railroad bridge to haul food and supplies to flood-stricken residents of the Kentucky cities.

All railroad service was halted at Cincinnati's Union Terminal as floodwaters swirled along Lincoln Park Drive, the wide street which is the approach to the terminal.

In the Associated Press office, the breakdown of electrical power knocked out teletype circuits on the evening of "Black Sunday." Roy Schneider, still in the AP's Cincinnati office, and Ben Ronsheim, now retired, manned Morse code circuits to keep news of the flood moving to the rest of the world.

Newspaper files show that the most popular items for sale were candles, being hawked by street salesmen, and rubber boots. Liquor stores were closed for days but beer was a popular commodity—not necessarily because it was alcoholic but because it could be used as a substitute for scarce drinking water.

And such was the situation all along the river. Food was short at Portsmouth. Louisville had no electric power and federal troops were pushed into that beleagured city. National guardsmen patrolled the Indiana side of the river. Evansville was without electric power and there was little or no heat in downtown establishments.

In Cincinnati there were 18 consecutive days on which the river exceeded the 52-foot flood stage.

As late as Jan. 19, there had been no indications of the disaster to come. Then it began to rise steadily.

On Jan. 22 the level reached 71.3 feet, exceeding the previous all-time record of 71.1 feet in 1884.

By that time bridges were being closed here. The levee broke at Lawrenceburg, Ind., and water flowed over the flood wall at Portsmouth, Ohio into the downtown district.

Jan. 23 was the day of false hope. With the river nearly stationary at 72.8 feet and cold weather moving in, the weather bureau forecast a crest of 73.5 feet. By that time the estimated flood damage in this area had been increased to five million dollars. It was estimated there were 75,000 persons homeless in Ohio, 35,000 in Indiana and 66,000 homeless was predicted for Kentucky.

And then came "Black Sunday" and the days of disaster.

Wylie Named Compensation Bureau Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chalmers P. Wylie, 36, new administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, will be sworn in to the $18,000-a-year post today.

Wylie, Columbus city attorney, was named to the state position by Gov. C. William O'Neill Wednesday. He will take over immediately. The bureau handles claims of injured workmen under the state-operated insurance plan.

A native of Norwich, Muskingum County, Wylie attended Otterbein College and Ohio State University and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—You can get dizzy these brisk January days just trying to follow President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey when they talk of cutting the budget and reducing taxes on small business.

Last August Eisenhower's special committee for helping small business made 14 recommendations, including tax cuts that would amount to 600 million dollars a year.

During the presidential campaign Eisenhower said, "I shall call for further help to small business with some dozen specific recommendations for action — including special tax measures."

But he was very vague when he sent his economic message to Congress Wednesday, contenting himself with saying any tax cut for small business should "involve only a minimum loss of revenue" to the government.

Last week at a news conference Secretary Humphrey brushed past the Cabinet committee's recommendations for 600 million dollars in tax cuts. He said he opposed any substantial loss in revenue but added he'd be glad to see small business get a cut of 20 to 30 million dollars.

It was over the budget itself that a peculiar fog descended. This past year, as every year, the heads of government agencies worked for months figuring out their spending estimates which would go into Eisenhower's total budget.

They're supposed to cut to the bone. To see that they do, the Budget Bureau goes over their figures, looking for places to use the axe. Humphrey at his news conference praised the agency heads for their zeal. And he said:

"I think the budget as now drawn has been prepared with the very greatest care and I think it is the best that we can possibly do right now. I don't think there is anything in sight that can be done better than is now proposed in this budget. . . ."

Yet a few minutes later he was saying spending must come down — he had said the same thing in a carefully prepared statement at the beginning of the conference — and then volunteered this information:

"I think there are a lot of places in this budget that can be cut." Reporters asked him where. He wouldn't say. And he refused to say where again Wednesday when he appeared before a House Appropriations Committee whose job is to determine how much shall be spent.

This budget of almost 72 billion dollars was the highest Eisenhower had submitted to Congress in his four years and higher than any peacetime budget ever offered by former President Truman. Why was it so high?

Humphrey said it has just been "creeping up on us" because everybody has been looking to the government for more and more.

Wednesday at his own news conference Eisenhower likewise said spending must be kept down. Then, however, unlike Humphrey who said the trouble started with the public which wanted more from the government and went on up to government officials, Eisenhower said:

"As long as the American people demand and, in my opinion deserve, the kind of services that this budget provides, we have got to spend this kind of money." But if Congress can cut the budget, Eisenhower said, it ought to.

That's hardly news, since it's Congress' job. It would seem, from all this, that the White House isn't going to provide leadership in cutting the budget, or fighting for what it asked, and that if small business gets any sizable tax relief it will have to look to Congress, not to the administration.

Second A-Sub OK On First Test

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The nation's second atomic submarine, the Seawolf, is back in her berth here after 36 hours of first trials at sea.

The builder's trial run took the sub out into Long Island Sound Monday. She returned Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Navy Atlantic submarine force headquarters in New London said the trials, including initial submergence tests, went off satisfactorily. More tests are planned.

New Idle Claims Showing Decline

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports that new claims decreased and continuing claims increased for the week ended Jan. 19.

The bureau said new claims totaled 14,978 compared with 15,620 for the week ended Jan. 12. Continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more totaled 66,492 compared with 63,538 the previous week.

'Honest Mistake' By Fireman OKd

TOLEDO (AP)—Perrysburg councilmen looked over the annual fire department report and noticed one run described as an "honest mistake."

Fire Chief Leonard Roberts explained that a volunteer fireman turned in an alarm after he drove by a house and saw a sudden flare of light. Firemen arrived to learn the flare resulted when an inhabitant of the house opened a stove door to burn some paper.

Ohio Railroad Weed-Control Hearing Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There will be a full-scale public hearing in March to determine whether railroads in Ohio have prevented and controlled weeds along their tracks.

Railroad brotherhoods, unions to which railroaders belong, do not think the railroads are doing a good job. They claim that in recent years weeds have grown high enough to make working on the railroad more dangerous.

Because weeds often hide the ground, they contend, a train crewman stepping off a car cannot tell whether his footing will be firm.

The brotherhoods filed a complaint with the state utilities commission last October. Since then many railroads have filed answers, claiming they are doing adequate jobs in cutting weeds and controlling them with chemicals.

Some railroads contended township trustees and not the commission have responsibility for weed control and asked the complaint be dismissed. But today the commission decided it had the power to hold a public hearing and set one for Tuesday, March 5.

Pravda Claims U.S. Plans War

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party has accused the United States of establishing bases for atomic-armed guided missiles around the perimeter of the Soviet Union. Pravda said this raised the threat of a great new war.

The organ of the Soviet party said reports in the U. S. press prove the United States is planning to equip its "bases" in Turkey, Iran, Japan, Okinawa, Alaska and Western Europe with guided missiles and atomic shells.

Daytonian Seeks Return Of Whisky

DAYTON (AP) — George Clark wants the Dayton police to give him back his whisky.

His case (the legal kind) has gone to the Ohio Supreme Court.

He has already tried unsuccessfully to have the Dayton Municipal Court and the Montgomery Appellate Court order police to return several cases of whisky and beer they confiscated in a raid about five years ago.

He is now asking the supreme court to overrule the lower courts.

Value of the beverages has not been estimated.

Fish have very few nerves around the mouth and therefore feel very little pain when hooked.

Twenty-three girls from Brownie Troop 25 received their Brownie Wings and were welcomed into Intermediate Girl Scouts by Mrs. Vera Saunders, Neighborhood Chairman.

The ceremony was held at the Methodist Church. The girls formed a horseshoe and pledged allegiance to the flag and sang their Brownie song. Their leader, Mrs. R. Chelikowsky, heard them repeat the Girl Scout Promise, while each girl's mother pinned a Girl Scout Pin on their uniforms.

After singing the Promise Song, the new Girl Scouts returned to their seats to watch a puppet show presented by Troop 788, under the leadership of Mrs. Saunders and Mrs. S. Measemer. This very entertaining production was, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs".

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the charter to the new Intermediate Troop 785 by Mrs. Saunders. This charter was the first to be presented in Circleville through the newly formed Ohio Trefoil Council.

Punch and a cake, decorated with the Girl Scout Trefoil, were served.

Mrs. Chelikowsky is capably assisted by Mrs. C. Linn and Mrs. G. Speakman.

Girls present from Troop 788 were; Diane Burton, Katherine Measemer, Mary Anne Saunders, Kathy Schmidt, Beverly Lutz, Kay Clutten and Beverly Moore.

The following girls received their Girl Scout pins: Kelly Anderson, Betsy Barnhart, Karen Chelikowsky, Carolyn Chaffin, Marjorie Cook, Julia Goeller, Sally Griener, Sharon Hart, Terry Jackson, Jill Jenkins, Frances Keller, Sally Linn, Sharon Moore, Diane Quincel, Patty Quincel, Sandra Quincel, Sandra Shellhammer, Pamela Speakman, Linda Steinhauser, Norma Troutman, Judy Wharton, Antoinette Wojciak and Ginger Young.

One girl, Bobbie Blue, was unable to attend because of illness and received her wings at home.

World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—You can get dizzy these brisk January days just trying to follow President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey when they talk of cutting the budget and reducing taxes on small business.

Last August Eisenhower's special committee for helping small business made 14 recommendations, including tax cuts that would amount to 600 million dollars a year.

During the presidential campaign Eisenhower said, "I shall call for further help to small business with some dozen specific recommendations for action — including special tax measures."

But he was very vague when he sent his economic message to Congress Wednesday, contenting himself with saying any tax cut for small business should "involve only a minimum loss of revenue" to the government.

Last week at a news conference Secretary Humphrey brushed past the Cabinet committee's recommendations for 600 million dollars in tax cuts. He said he opposed any substantial loss in revenue but added he'd be glad to see small business get a cut of 20 to 30 million dollars.

It was over the budget itself that a peculiar fog descended. This past year, as every year, the heads of government agencies worked for months figuring out their spending estimates which would go into Eisenhower's total budget.

They're supposed to cut to the bone. To see that they do, the Budget Bureau goes over their figures, looking for places to use the axe. Humphrey at his news conference praised the agency heads for their zeal. And he said:

"I think the budget as now drawn has been prepared with the very greatest care and I think it is the best that we can possibly do right now. I don't think there is anything in sight that can be done better than is now proposed in this budget. . . ."

Yet a few minutes later he was saying spending must come down — he had said the same thing in a carefully prepared statement at the beginning of the conference — and then volunteered this information:

"I think there are a lot of places in this budget that can be cut." Reporters asked him where. He wouldn't say. And he refused to say where again Wednesday when he appeared before a House Appropriations Committee whose job is to determine how much shall be spent.

This budget of almost 72 billion dollars was the highest Eisenhower had submitted to Congress in his four years and higher than any peacetime budget ever offered by former President Truman. Why was it so high?

Humphrey said it has just been "creeping up on us" because everybody has been looking to the government for more and more.

Wednesday at his own news conference Eisenhower likewise said spending must be kept down. Then, however, unlike Humphrey who said the trouble started with the public which wanted more from the government and went on up to government officials, Eisenhower said:

"As long as the American people demand and, in my opinion deserve, the kind of services that this budget provides, we have got to spend this kind of money." But if Congress can cut the budget, Eisenhower said, it ought to.

That's hardly news, since it's Congress' job. It would seem, from all this, that the White House isn't going to provide leadership in cutting the budget, or fighting for what it asked, and that if small business gets any sizable tax relief it will have to look to Congress, not to the administration.

Second A-Sub OK On First Test

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The nation's second atomic submarine, the Seawolf, is back in her berth here after 36 hours of first trials at sea.

The builder's trial run took the sub out into Long Island Sound Monday. She returned Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Navy Atlantic submarine force headquarters in New London said the trials, including initial submergence tests, went off satisfactorily. More tests are planned.

New Idle Claims Showing Decline

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports that new claims decreased and continuing claims increased for the week ended Jan. 19.

The bureau said new claims totaled 14,978 compared with 15,620 for the week ended Jan. 12. Continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more totaled 66,492 compared with 63,538 the previous week.

'Honest Mistake' By Fireman OKd

TOLEDO (AP)—Perrysburg councilmen looked over the annual fire department report and noticed one run described as an "honest mistake."

Fire Chief Leonard Roberts explained that a volunteer fireman turned in an alarm after he drove by a house and saw a sudden flare of light. Firemen arrived to learn the flare resulted when an inhabitant of the house opened a stove door to burn some paper.

Ohio Railroad Weed-Control Hearing Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There will be a full-scale public hearing in March to determine whether railroads in Ohio have prevented and controlled weeds along their tracks.

Railroad brotherhoods, unions to which railroaders belong, do not think the railroads are doing a good job. They claim that in recent years weeds have grown high enough to make working on the railroad more dangerous.

Because weeds often hide the ground, they contend, a train crewman stepping off a car cannot tell whether his footing will be firm.

The brotherhoods filed a complaint with the state utilities commission last October. Since then many railroads have filed answers, claiming they are doing adequate jobs in cutting weeds and controlling them with chemicals.

Some railroads contended township trustees and not the commission have responsibility for weed control and asked the complaint be dismissed. But today the commission decided it had the power to hold a public hearing and set one for Tuesday, March 5.

Pravda Claims U.S. Plans War

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party has accused the United States of establishing bases for atomic-armed guided missiles around the perimeter of the Soviet Union. Pravda said this raised the threat of a great new war.

The organ of the Soviet party said reports in the U. S. press prove the United States is planning to equip its "bases" in Turkey, Iran, Japan, Okinawa, Alaska and Western Europe with guided missiles and atomic shells.

Daytonian Seeks Return Of Whisky

DAYTON (AP) — George Clark wants the Dayton police to give him back his whisky.

His case (the legal kind) has gone to the Ohio Supreme Court.

He has already tried unsuccessfully to have the Dayton Municipal Court and the Montgomery Appellate Court order police to return several cases of whisky and beer they confiscated in a raid about five years ago.

He is now asking the supreme court to overrule the lower courts.

Value of the beverages has not been estimated.

SCOUT NEWS

Twenty-three girls from Brownie Troop 25 received their Brownie Wings and were welcomed into Intermediate Girl Scouts by Mrs. Vera Saunders, Neighborhood Chairman.

The ceremony was held at the Methodist Church. The girls formed a horseshoe and pledged allegiance to the flag and sang their Brownie song. Their leader, Mrs. R. Chelikowsky, heard them repeat the Girl Scout Promise, while each girl's mother pinned a Girl Scout Pin on their uniforms.

After singing the Promise Song, the new Girl Scouts returned to their seats to watch a puppet show presented by Troop 788, under the leadership of Mrs. Saunders and Mrs. S. Measemer. This very entertaining production was, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs".

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the charter to the new Intermediate Troop 785 by Mrs. Saunders. This charter was the first to be presented in Circleville through the newly formed Ohio Trefoil Council.

Punch and a cake, decorated with the Girl Scout Trefoil, were served.

Mrs. Chelikowsky is capably assisted by Mrs. C. Linn and Mrs. G. Speakman.

Girls present from Troop 788 were; Diane Burton, Katherine Measemer, Mary Anne Saunders, Kathy Schmidt, Beverly Lutz, Kay Clutten and Beverly Moore.

The following girls received their Girl Scout pins: Kelly Anderson, Betsy Barnhart, Karen Chelikowsky, Carolyn Chaffin, Marjorie Cook, Julia Goeller, Sally Griener, Sharon Hart, Terry Jackson, Jill Jenkins, Frances Keller, Sally Linn, Sharon Moore, Diane Quincel, Patty Quincel, Sandra Quincel, Sandra Shellhammer, Pamela Speakman, Linda Steinhauser, Norma Troutman, Judy Wharton, Antoinette Wojciak and Ginger Young.

One girl, Bobbie Blue, was unable to attend because of illness and received her wings at home.

Strong Cross Currents Felt In Economy

Some Fear Prosperity May Slip Through U.S. Fingers If Not Cautious

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — How to keep good times from slipping through our fingers before we know it is the basic theme of President Eisenhower's economic report to Congress.

The message stresses what more and more industrial leaders are pointing out: The strong cross currents in conflict in the economy today.

That prosperity is continuing for the majority of Americans is generally agreed. That we may be killing the goose that lays these golden eggs is what some fear.

The cross currents are pointed up by Walter E. Hoadley Jr., treasurer of Armstrong Cork, who tells members of the National Assn., of Home Builders, meeting in Chicago: "The economy faces a severe struggle between inflationary pressures on the one hand and the depressive impact of shrinking profits and excessive capacity on the other hand."

President Eisenhower enumerates these dangerous pressures:

1. Wages and prices are rising steadily and inflation shows many built-in factors. One of the leaders in his own party, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, who is also a merchant in Phoenix, Ariz., tells the Newspaper Advertising Executives Assn., also meeting in Chicago, to look out for the threat of "a buyer's strike" by consumers tired of the unnatural level of prices. Other businessmen and political leaders have stressed that some prices may be heading higher because output is being manipulated to see to it.

2. Productivity, or output per manhour of work, barely increased during 1956, although in previous postwar years it had been rising at about 3 per cent a year. It takes either greater productivity or price hikes to pay for increased wage scales, business management contends.

3. Corporate profits before taxes increased 700 million in 1956, and only managed that by a year end rally after slipping badly earlier as wage and material costs rose.

4. Consumer prices climbed nearly 3 per cent, making the high cost of living an unwelcome guest again in many a home.

The cross currents at war with these — and apparently still holding the upper hand — include:

1. The total output of goods and services is at a record high—but half of the dollar gain production reflects higher prices.

2. Employment holds around peak levels and well above prosperous 1955.

3. Total personal income after taxes, the Commerce Department reports, hit a seasonably adjusted annual rate of more than 293 billion dollars in the final months of 1956. This was 5½ per cent above the previous year. After paying their taxes Americans have that much more left with which to buy goods and services if they don't mind the higher prices.

4. They spent 3 per cent more last year than in 1955. The Commerce Department puts last year's retail sales total at a record 191 billion dollars.

Most businessmen expect higher sales totals right up to midyear, according to a Dun & Bradstreet survey. Two thirds of the 1,535 queried look for increased sales in the April, May and June period than in the previous year — but less than half think profits show a gain.

Businessmen recall that such strong currents seldom remain in balance for long.

Many are betting inflation will win out, in spite of all the governmental efforts to curb it. But some are keeping a close watch for signs of deflation that could bring a halt to the long upward trend of business and incomes.

County Police Seek Autoist With 'Arsenal'

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Police in three counties today searched for a man who fled from a state highway patrolman trying to make a routine arrest. The man's car contained a small arsenal.

A second man, identified by patrolmen as Harvey R. Chrysler, 44, of Columbus, was captured shortly after he ran from the car. Chrysler told the patrol he was hitchhiking and did not know the name of the man with whom he was riding.

Patrolman Robert E. Klein, who stopped the car for speeding, said it contained two automatic pistols, an army carbine and a blackjack.

The patrol said the car had been stolen from a Mansfield man Nov. 1 and had license plates issued to a Robert Young of Lima, who reported the plates lost.

Klein said that when he signaled the car to pull over, its two occupants jumped out and fled. Chrysler was the only one he could catch, the patrolman said.

The incident happened Tuesday night on U. S. 23 about five miles south of here. Since then, roadblocks were set up in Ross, Scioto and Pike counties in an effort to apprehend Chrysler's companion.

Hungary Convicts 3 More In Revolt

BUDAPEST (AP) — Radio Budapest says three more Hungarians have been sentenced to death for inciting strikes and urging other resistance to the regime of Communist Premier Kadar.

This brought to at least 28 the number of death sentences announced publicly since the revolution was put down. Eleven executions have been announced.

Ohio Farm Bureau Chieftain Raps State Water Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John W. Sims, vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, says the state is trying to handle its natural resource problem in an "unnatural manner."

In a speech for the closing session of the Ohio Federation of Soil Conservation Districts, Sims said:

"In Ohio we don't plant corn in September and expect to harvest a crop. Yet when we plan water programs and laws we evidently believe we can force water to flow according to township, county or state lines.

Sims called for a complete water plan for Ohio which he said is needed to prevent waste and pollution. The plan should set forth principles which are "concise, clear, reasonable and fair," he declared.

Contending that Ohio water laws are inadequate and obsolete, the farm leader said that neither farmers industry or municipalities are sure of their water rights.

Sims predicted a great increase in irrigated land in Ohio. He foresees as many as two million acres watered eventually, as compared to what he estimated to be about 25,000 acres being irrigated now.

Earl K. Devore of Winchester, Ohio, told delegates that it now looks like 20 states and 14 nations will be represented at the 1957 World Plowing Championships Sept. 17-20 at Peebles (Adams County), Ohio.

The Ohio association is composed of men from 87 counties who give their free time to study best ways to use the soil.

Detroit Police Renew Censorship

DETROIT (AP) — Police censors have banned another paperback novel here and Police Commissioner Edward Piggins has invited a court test of his book banning powers.

The censor bureau ruled from Detroit bookstands the paperbound edition of "Your Own Beloved Sons," a novel of the Korean War by Thomas Anderson. No action was taken against the clothbound edition.

Meanwhile Piggins told a City Council meeting that opponents of his ban against the novel "Ten North Frederick" as obscene, should take it to court.

Big Cities Planning Columbus Parley

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner will be host Feb. 8 to a group of big city officials who think the state and federal governments should help pay engineering costs of expressway projects in Ohio.

Under the present formula, individual cities must pay all of the engineering or planning costs of such programs. For the construction itself, the city and state each pay five per cent and the federal government pays 90 per cent. Big cities seek a 90-5-5 sharing of the engineering costs which usually come to between 2 and 3 per cent of the over-all cost.

Ohio Liquor Yields Record Tax Take

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio and federal treasuries will profit by about $175 million from record breaking liquor sales in Ohio stores and agencies during 1956, the state liquor department says.

Sales in the state's 297 retail and wholesale outlets totaled $219,182,946 last year—an increase of $15,974,908, or 7.86 per cent, over the pevious record high of $203,208,038, established in 1955.

The departent said an estimated 80 per cent or $175 million of the $219 million represent taxes.

Last year $21,300,000 from net profits was transferred to the Ohio general revenue fund. The mental health program will get about $6 million.

Pigeons Fail On Trip To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Republicans of Cook County (Chicago), Ill., made certain their greetings to President Eisenhower on his second term reached the White House.

Two carrier pigeons, bearing greetings, were released in Chicago last weekend, but failed to reach their destination here.

However, the GOP group sent to the White House a large scroll signed by more than 500 of its members at their own inaugural ball held in Chicago Saturday.

Cadillac

Pride of the Neighborhood!

It is a happy occasion indeed when a new Cadillac first appears in the driveway of its happy owner.

As you would expect, it signals the most joyful of family celebrations—and occasions the heartfelt congratulations of friends and acquaintances.

But you might be surprised, we think, to learn of the widespread rejoicing which the arrival of a new Cadillac frequently inspires.

In fact, the car invariably becomes a source of genuine pride and satisfaction throughout the entire neighborhood in which it resides.

The neighborhood understandably delights in having a beautiful new Cadillac to grace its streets . . . and takes great pleasure in knowing that one of its own has been able to realize the dream that lives in the hearts of so many.

And we think you might also be surprised to learn that this happy event is currently taking place in a great many neighborhoods that have never before laid claim to a Cadillac car.

For there is an ever-growing awareness that Cadillac—with all its incomparable motoring virtues—is one of the soundest and wisest purchases a motorist can make.

We will be happy to put you behind the wheel at any time for a personal demonstration.

In fact, why not come in and see us today?

This was 5½ per cent above the previous year. After paying their taxes Americans have that much more left with which to buy goods and services if they don't mind the higher prices.

4. They spent 3 per cent more last year than in 1955. The Commerce Department puts last year's retail sales total at a record 191 billion dollars.

Most businessmen expect higher sales totals right up to midyear, according to a Dun & Bradstreet survey. Two thirds of the 1,535 queried look for increased sales in the April, May and June period than in the previous year — but less than half think profits show a gain.

Businessmen recall that such strong currents seldom remain in balance for long.

Many are betting inflation will win out, in spite of all the governmental efforts to curb it. But some are keeping a close watch for signs of deflation that could bring a halt to the long upward trend of business and incomes.

County Police Seek Autoist With 'Arsenal'

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Police in three counties today searched for a man who fled from a state highway patrolman trying to make a routine arrest. The man's car contained a small arsenal.

A second man, identified by patrolmen as Harvey R. Chrysler, 44, of Columbus, was captured shortly after he ran from the car. Chrysler told the patrol he was hitchhiking and did not know the name of the man with whom he was riding.

Patrolman Robert E. Klein, who stopped the car for speeding, said it contained two automatic pistols, an army carbine and a blackjack.

The patrol said the car had been stolen from a Mansfield man Nov. 1 and had license plates issued to a Robert Young of Lima, who reported the plates lost.

Klein said that when he signaled the car to pull over, its two occupants jumped out and fled. Chrysler was the only one he could catch, the patrolman said.

The incident happened Tuesday night on U. S. 23 about five miles south of here. Since then, roadblocks were set up in Ross, Scioto and Pike counties in an effort to apprehend Chrysler's companion.

Hungary Convicts 3 More In Revolt

BUDAPEST (AP) — Radio Budapest says three more Hungarians have been sentenced to death for inciting strikes and urging other resistance to the regime of Communist Premier Kadar.

This brought to at least 28 the number of death sentences announced publicly since the revolution was put down. Eleven executions have been announced.

Ohio Farm Bureau Chieftain Raps State Water Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John W. Sims, vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, says the state is trying to handle its natural resource problem in an "unnatural manner."

In a speech for the closing session of the Ohio Federation of Soil Conservation Districts, Sims said: "In Ohio we don't plant corn in September and expect to harvest a crop. Yet when we plan water programs and laws we evidently believe we can force water to flow according to township, county or state lines.

Sims called for a complete water plan for Ohio which he said is needed to prevent waste and pollution. The plan should set forth principles which are "concise, clear, reasonable and fair," he declared.

Contending that Ohio water laws are inadequate and obsolete, the farm leader said that neither farmers industry or municipalities are sure of their water rights.

Sims predicted a great increase in irrigated land in Ohio. He foresees as many as two million acres watered eventually, as compared to what he estimated to be about 25,000 acres being irrigated now.

Earl K. Devore of Winchester, Ohio, told delegates that it now looks like 20 states and 14 nations will be represented at the 1957 World Plowing Championships Sept. 17-20 at Peebles (Adams County), Ohio.

The Ohio association is composed of men from 87 counties who give their free time to study best ways to use the soil.

Big Cities Planning Columbus Parley

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner will be host Feb. 8 to a group of big city officials who think the state and federal governments should help pay engineering costs of expressway projects in Ohio.

Under the present formula, individual cities must pay all of the engineering or planning costs of such programs. For the construction itself, the city and state each pay five per cent and the federal government pays 90 per cent. Big cities seek a 90-5-5 sharing of the engineering costs which usually come to between 2 and 3 per cent of the over-all cost.

Detroit Police Renew Censorship

DETROIT (AP) — Police censors have banned another paperback novel here and Police Commissioner Edward Piggins has invited a court test of his book banning powers.

The censor bureau ruled from Detroit bookstands the paperbound edition of "Your Own Beloved Sons," a novel of the Korean War by Thomas Anderson. No action was taken against the clothbound edition.

Meanwhile Piggins told a City Council meeting that opponents of his ban against the novel "Ten North Frederick" as obscene, should take it to court.

Ohio Liquor Yields Record Tax Take

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio and federal treasuries will profit by about $175 million from record breaking liquor sales in Ohio stores and agencies during 1956, the state liquor department says.

Sales in the state's 297 retail and wholesale outlets totaled $219,182,946 last year—an increase of $15,974,908, or 7.86 per cent, over the pevious record high of $203,208,038, established in 1955.

The departent said an estimated 80 per cent or $175 million of the $219 million represent taxes.

Last year $21,300,000 from net profits was transferred to the Ohio general revenue fund. The mental health program will get about $6 million.

Pigeons Fail On Trip To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Republicans of Cook County (Chicago), Ill., made certain their greetings to President Eisenhower on his second term reached the White House.

Two carrier pigeons, bearing greetings, were released in Chicago last weekend, but failed to reach their destination here.

However, the GOP group sent to the White House a large scroll signed by more than 500 of its members at their own inaugural ball held in Chicago Saturday.

Cadillac

Pride of the Neighborhood!

It is a happy occasion indeed when a new Cadillac first appears in the driveway of its happy owner.

As you would expect, it signals the most joyful of family celebrations—and occasions the heartfelt congratulations of friends and acquaintances.

But you might be surprised, we think, to learn of the widespread rejoicing which the arrival of a new Cadillac frequently inspires.

In fact, the car invariably becomes a source of genuine pride and satisfaction throughout the entire neighborhood in which it resides.

The neighborhood understandably delights in having a beautiful new Cadillac to grace its streets . . . and takes great pleasure in knowing that one of its own has been able to realize the dream that lives in the hearts of so many.

And we think you might also be surprised to learn that this happy event is currently taking place in a great many neighborhoods that have never before laid claim to a Cadillac car.

For there is an ever-growing awareness that Cadillac—with all its incomparable motoring virtues—is one of the soundest and wisest purchases a motorist can make.

From a standpoint of purchase price, maintenance, operation and resale value, the car represents a truly extraordinary investment.

Surely, in view of this, you should consider a Cadillac this year.

We will be happy to put you behind the wheel at any time for a personal demonstration.

In fact, why not come in and see us today?

Washington To Meet Walnut 5 For Jr. Crown

The Walnut Junior High cagers and the Washington Township squad will play for the County Junior High Championship next Monday night at Walnut.

Both teams won their semi-final games last night at Walnut Township school.

In the first game of the evening, Walnut upset the pre-tournament favorite, Saltcreek, 38 to 35, in an exciting contest that was close all the way.

Walnut's win was again paced by Harber who collected 18 points for a two game total of 46 points.

LITTLE left-handed Valentine was high for the losers with 10 points.

In the second game of the night, Washington downed Williamsport 53 to 37.

Only three players on the Washington squad hit the scoring column. Fowler stripped the nets for 23 followed by E. Haddox with 18 and J. Haddox with 12.

Anderson posted 12 markers for Williamsport.

Young Yank Net Star Scares Hoad

MELBOURNE (AP) — Young Mike Green of Miami Beach, Fla., extended Aussie star Lew Hoad to five sets today before losing in the quarterfinals of the Australian National Tennis Championships.

The 19-year-old student at the University of California put the Aussie ace in the hole by winning the first two sets, but couldn't hold off Hoad's stirring rally. The final score: 4-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

The powerful American combination of Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Althea Gibson of New York blasted their way to the finals of the women's doubles, beating Loraine Coghlan and Margaret Helyer of Australia 6-1, 6-4 in the semifinals.

Birdie Tebbetts Says Reds To Be Top Contender Again

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of managerial views on 1957 baseball written under the manager's own byline.

by George (Birdie) Tebbetts

NASHUA, N. H. (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs must be regarded as co-favorites for the National League pennant along with Brooklyn and Milwaukee.

If we're not harassed by an unusual run of bad luck, I'll be sorely disappointed if we're not up there all the way.

Three years ago, when I came to the Redlegs as manager, I said improvement of the pitching was my number one task. I reiterated that statement after one year with the club, repeated it each year and now I'm repeating it again with this addition:

I believe an improvement is in sight for next year with Joe Nuxhall, Hal Jeffcoat and Johnny Klippstein as the pitchers most likely to give the hurling a good lift. Nuxhall has a year of injuries behind him and if he can avoid injuries this year, should make the difference. Jeffcoat will pitch more frequently and Klippstein will improve.

We look for Brooks Lawrence to repeat his good year of 1956. We hope to realize the potential of Warren Hacker. Tom Acker and Don Gross, both young pitchers, have a year of experience under their belt. There is no better relief pitcher than Herschel Freeman. We expect Russ Meyer to help us.

We are a year older and the experience of having gone through a very close pennant, in itself, makes us stronger.

I look for Ted Kluszewski to have a slam-bang season. Few people realized what a terrific handicap he played under last year. There were days when he could hardly move but the big guy never complained.

I hear Big Klu is 100 per cent again and that's the best news I've heard all winter. With such fellows like Wally Post, Frank Robinson, Gus Bell, Ed Bailey and Smoky Burgess to provide the power and Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple furnishing everything else, we should have few worries.

We have the strongest bench in the league. Bailey led the circuit in pinch hitting. Burgess is the best pinch hitter I have seen since Johnny Mize. George Crowe and Bob Thurman give us tremendous reserve power. Rocky Bridges, Art Schult, Bob Blacena and either Alex Grammas or Don Hoak give us seasoned performers to meet any emergency.

Rupp Seeking Improvement In Cage Rules

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The top collegiate basketball powers are resting between semesters but outspoken Adolph Rupp, coach of fifth-ranked Kentucky, is still on the attack.

Rupp, never one to let success stop the search for improvement, has leveled a blast at rules he feels cut spectator interest.

He believes professional basketball is "way ahead of the colleges in progressive rules and I predict the next great development and growth in sports will be that of professional basketball. It has been forced to make progressive rule changes to hold spectator interest."

One rule Rupp would have the colleges pick up from the pros is the 24-second limit on ball-possession before a team takes a shot.

But the change he wants most is limination of the bonus free throw — where a player is given a second free throw for making the first.

"It has no place in a competitive game," he said in outlining suggestions he has made to the NCAA for rules changes.

"The Big Ten has taken not only a sensible but a progressive step to clean up this cheap way of winning a game," he said. He referred to the Big Ten's "six-foul" rule. This disallows the bonus free throw on the first six fouls committed by a team in each half.

Ortiz Sparkles In Ring Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Boxing Assn. had better start making a spot in its rankings for lightweight Carlos Ortiz, a nifty combination puncher who remained unbeaten Wednesday night in gaining his 20th victory.

Ortiz 20, disposed of Chicago's Bobby Rogers before the TV cameras in Chicago Stadium.

Ortiz did his job skillfully against a youth his own age who showed promise with a good right hand but didn't use it often enough. He landed only about five solid rights during the 10 rounds.

Dick Aloise, junior end from Rensselaer, N. Y., also is a member of the Syracuse University basketball team.

County League Play Set For Friday Night

Pickaway County league basketball goes into full swing Friday night with five games on schedule. Ashville, drawing a bye, will be neutral for the evening.

Other loop tilts will be as follows:

Perry at Saltcreek; Scioto at Deercreek; Monroe at Darby; Jackson at Walnut; and Pickaway at New Holland.

Ashville has a non-league battle with Pickerington scheduled for Saturday night. The game will be played on the Bronco court.

* * *

Another encounter which might end up being a close one will be the Jackson-Walnut duel.

Berra Believes Yanks Still Tops

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP) — The 1956 World Champion New York Yankees will be even stronger this year according to the man who makes the club tick.

Yogi Berra, master-catcher of the Yanks, believes New York still is on the upgrade in the American League.

"If anything, we'll be stronger this year than last," Yogi said Wednesday night.

Yogi also said he thinks "Detroit will be the surprise team of the American League this year."

Clevelander's College Cage Status Eyed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fred Sawyer, Cleveland high school basketball star, wants to enroll at the University of Louisville next month, but the Kentucky school says it is not interested in him until his status at Toledo University has been cleared up.

Sawyer, who graduates from Cleveland South High School this week, passed his entrance examination at Toledo Jan. 5 and was given a schedule of classes.

He said Wednesday he had changed his mind and planned to enroll at Louisville next month. He said athletic officials at Toledo had been informed of his change in plans.

Coach Bernard (Peck) Hickman said Wednesday night, however, that Louisville is not interested in Sawyer if he is enrolled at Toledo.

The 6-9 cage star, with an average of close to 25 points a game, scored 32 points as South High coasted to a 74-48 victory over Rhodes Wednesday night. He completes his scholastic career against Cleveland Holy Name tomorrow night.

Sawyer said he decided to go to Louisville because he felt his prospects would be better there. He did not elaborate.

Ed Kalafat of the Minneapolis Lakers basketball team weighs 245 pounds.

Nick Sanger, San Jose State tackle, is the son of G. H. Sanger, former wrestler for Iowa State.

Nuxhall has a year of injuries behind him and if he can avoid injuries this year, should make the difference. Jeffcoat will pitch more frequently and Klippstein will improve.

We look for Brooks Lawrence to repeat his good year of 1956. We hope to realize the potential of Warren Hacker. Tom Acker and Don Gross, both young pitchers, have a year of experience under their belt. There is no better relief pitcher than Herschel Freeman. We expect Russ Meyer to help us.

We are a year older and the experience of having gone through a very close pennant, in itself, makes us stronger.

I look for Ted Kluszewski to have a slam-bang season. Few people realized what a terrific handicap he played under last year. There were days when he could hardly move but the big guy never complained.

I hear Big Klu is 100 per cent again and that's the best news I've heard all winter. With such fellows like Wally Post, Frank Robinson, Gus Bell, Ed Bailey and Smoky Burgess to provide the power and Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple furnishing everything else, we should have few worries.

We have the strongest bench in the league. Bailey led the circuit in pinch hitting. Burgess is the best pinch hitter I have seen since Johnny Mize. George Crowe and Bob Thurman give us tremendous reserve power. Rocky Bridges, Art Schult, Bob Blacena and either Alex Grammas or Don Hoak give us seasoned performers to meet any emergency.

Rupp Seeking Improvement In Cage Rules

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The top collegiate basketball powers are resting between semesters but outspoken Adolph Rupp, coach of fifth-ranked Kentucky, is still on the attack.

Rupp, never one to let success stop the search for improvement, has leveled a blast at rules he feels cut spectator interest.

He believes professional basketball is "way ahead of the colleges in progressive rules and I predict the next great development and growth in sports will be that of professional basketball. It has been forced to make progressive rule changes to hold spectator interest."

One rule Rupp would have the colleges pick up from the pros is the 24-second limit on ball-possession before a team takes a shot.

But the change he wants most is limination of the bonus free throw — where a player is given a second free throw for making the first.

"It has no place in a competitive game," he said in outlining suggestions he has made to the NCAA for rules changes.

"The Big Ten has taken not only a sensible but a progressive step to clean up this cheap way of winning a game," he said. He referred to the Big Ten's "six-foul" rule. This disallows the bonus free throw on the first six fouls committed by a team in each half.

Ortiz Sparkles In Ring Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Boxing Assn. had better start making a spot in its rankings for lightweight Carlos Ortiz, a nifty combination puncher who remained unbeaten Wednesday night in gaining his 20th victory.

Ortiz 20, disposed of Chicago's Bobby Rogers before the TV cameras in Chicago Stadium.

Ortiz did his job skillfully against a youth his own age who showed promise with a good right hand but didn't use it often enough. He landed only about five solid rights during the 10 rounds.

Dick Aloise, junior end from Rensselaer, N. Y., also is a member of the Syracuse University basketball team.

County League Play Set For Friday Night

Pickaway County league basketball goes into full swing Friday night with five games on schedule. Ashville, drawing a bye, will be neutral for the evening.

Other loop tilts will be as follows:

Perry at Saltcreek; Scioto at Deercreek; Monroe at Darby; Jackson at Walnut; and Pickaway at New Holland.

Ashville has a non-league battle with Pickerington scheduled for Saturday night. The game will be played on the Bronco court.

* * *

THE Pickaway-New Holland fracas should prove to be a real battle although the Pirates hold a slight edge record-wise. However, the Bulldogs are always a tough team to beat on their home floor.

Another encounter which might end up being a close one will be the Jackson-Walnut duel.

Berra Believes Yanks Still Tops

MANCHESTER, N. H. (AP) — The 1956 World Champion New York Yankees will be even stronger this year according to the man who makes the club tick.

Yogi Berra, master-catcher of the Yanks, believes New York still is on the upgrade in the American League.

"If anything, we'll be stronger this year than last," Yogi said Wednesday night.

Yogi also said he thinks "Detroit will be the surprise team of the American League this year."

Clevelander's College Cage Status Eyed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fred Sawyer, Cleveland high school basketball star, wants to enroll at the University of Louisville next month, but the Kentucky school says it is not interested in him until his status at Toledo University has been cleared up.

Sawyer, who graduates from Cleveland South High School this week, passed his entrance examination at Toledo Jan. 5 and was given a schedule of classes.

He said Wednesday he had changed his mind and planned to enroll at Louisville next month. He said athletic officials at Toledo had been informed of his change in plans.

Coach Bernard (Peck) Hickman said Wednesday night, however, that Louisville is not interested in Sawyer if he is enrolled at Toledo.

The 6-9 cage star, with an average of close to 25 points a game, scored 32 points as South High coasted to a 74-48 victory over Rhodes Wednesday night. He completes his scholastic career against Cleveland Holy Name tomorrow night.

Sawyer said he decided to go to Louisville because he felt his prospects would be better there. He did not elaborate.

Ed Kalafat of the Minneapolis Lakers basketball team weighs 245 pounds.

Nick Sanger, San Jose State tackle, is the son of G. H. Sanger, former wrestler for Iowa State.

Shooting Accuracy Helping OSU Quint

CHICAGO (AP) — Team accuracy from the floor and foul line is paying off for Ohio State although the league-leading Buckeyes have only one man among the top 14 scorers in the Big Ten race.

In five straight conference victories, Ohio State has hit .457 per cent of its field goals for a record pace and is second to Indiana in free throw accuracy with .714. The Hoosiers (2-2) have .732.

Larsen, Mantle Proving Costly To Yankee '9'

2 Top Stars Heading List Of Holdouts In Major League Deals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The perfect game Don Larsen pitched in last fall's World Series is going to cost the New York Yankees more money than the world champions have offered their glamor pitchers.

While most Yankees have signed 1957 contracts without any noticeable kicks, the club's two showpieces — Larsen and Mickey Mantle — are making no bones about wanting more money.

Larsen, who posted a 11-5 regular season, said from his San Diego, Calif., home that he had returned his contract and wants $27,500.

He declined to say how much he received last year or how much the Yankees offered this time. It's a safe guess the $27,500 is close to twice the value of his 1956 contract. Unofficially it was believed the Yanks offered him $15,000 this year.

"If they don't do better than the offer they sent me," Larsen said, "I may end up tending bar."

Mantle is waiting for a talk with Yankee General Manager George Weiss, probably within 10 days.

Mickey, honored in Milwaukee Wednesday night as the Associated Press Male Athlete of 1956, has indicated he wants at least double the salary he received last year when he won baseball's triple crown: hitting (.353), runs batted in (130) and home runs (52). He is believed to have received around $35,000 last year.

The Yankees did sign two more players Wednesday, however, when shortstops Billy Hunter and Jerry Lumpe sent in their contracts.

Other clubs also continued to line up their players without too much trouble.

The Brooklyn Dodgers ran their list of satisfied players to 33, with seven to go, with the signing of three rookies — first baseman Jim Gentile, infielder Jasper Spears and all-around Mike Napoli.

Bob Cerv, a former Yankee signed his Kansas City Athletics contract. Right-handers Tom Brewer and Frank Sullivan, aces of the Boston pitching staff, signed up quickly after talking with Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin.

Jim Hearn, also a right-hand pitcher, agreed to Philadelphia Phillies' terms. And St. Louis reduced its list of unsigned Cardinals to six with the signing of pitchers Don Liddle and Lloyd Merritt and first baseman Glenn Nelson.

The Pittsburgh Pirates reported 25 players signed today with two southpaw catchers, Danny Kravitz and Dick Rand, agreeing to terms.

The Baltimore Orioles have announced the signing of two rookies, bringing the total number of players under contract to 15.

Signed to contracts were Joe Van Durham, rookie outfielder discharged last fall from the Army, and Tomy Patton, 21-year - old catcher drafted last month from Omaha of the American Assn.

The Chicago White Sox today had players Nos. 14 and 15 lured into the fold for 1957 with the signing of rookie first baseman Norman Larker and southpaw reliefer Paul La Palme.

The Sox Wednesday signed No. 13, big first sacker Walt Dropo, who batted .229 last year. Dropo moved in as a regular on July 29 and hit .290 in 62 games.

Cochrane Predicts Mantle Record

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mickey Cochrane says his namesake, Mickey Mantle, "will break Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season—there's no doubt about it."

"Black Mike" Cochrane of Philadelphia and Detroit Tiger fame made the statement Wednesday night after Mantle received the Frederick C. Miller Memorial Trophy as the male athlete of 1956.

The former star catcher, who has a sports show on a Chicago television station now, described the 25-year-old slugger as "the greatest switchhitter I ever saw."

Celtics Pointing For Cage Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Having trampled all opposition in the race for the eastern division title of the National Basketball Assn., the Boston Celtics today were looking for new fields to conquer — with nothing in the record books shy of their grasp.

The talent-laden Bostonians displayed an awesome attack Wednesday night in rolling up 140 points to 108 for Syracuse to miss the alltime single team scoring record by only two points. Oddly enough, it was against the Celtics on Feb. 8, 1956 that Philadelphia set the mark at 142 pints.

The Celtis, however, did set a season record, snapping the mark of 137 points set by St. Louis against New York last month.

Larsen, Mantle Proving Costly To Yankee '9'

2 Top Stars Heading List Of Holdouts In Major League Deals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The perfect game Don Larsen pitched in last fall's World Series is going to cost the New York Yankees more money than the world champions have offered their glamor pitchers.

While most Yankees have signed 1957 contracts without any noticeable kicks, the club's two showpieces — Larsen and Mickey Mantle — are making no bones about wanting more money.

Larsen, who posted a 11-5 regular season, said from his San Diego, Calif., home that he had returned his contract and wants $27,500.

He declined to say how much he received last year or how much the Yankees offered this time. It's a safe guess the $27,500 is close to twice the value of his 1956 contract. Unofficially it was believed the Yanks offered him $15,000 this year.

"If they don't do better than the offer they sent me," Larsen said, "I may end up tending bar."

Mantle is waiting for a talk with Yankee General Manager George Weiss, probably within 10 days.

Mickey, honored in Milwaukee Wednesday night as the Associated Press Male Athlete of 1956, has indicated he wants at least double the salary he received last year when he won baseball's triple crown: hitting (.353), runs batted in (130) and home runs (52). He is believed to have received around $35,000 last year.

The Yankees did sign two more players Wednesday, however, when shortstops Billy Hunter and Jerry Lumpe sent in their contracts.

Other clubs also continued to line up their players without too much trouble.

The Brooklyn Dodgers ran their list of satisfied players to 33, with seven to go, with the signing of three rookies — first baseman Jim Gentile, infielder Jasper Spears and all-around Mike Napoli.

Bob Cerv, a former Yankee signed his Kansas City Athletics contract. Right-handers Tom Brewer and Frank Sullivan, aces of the Boston pitching staff, signed up quickly after talking with Red Sox General Manager Joe Cronin.

Jim Hearn, also a right-hand pitcher, agreed to Philadelphia Phillies' terms. And St. Louis reduced its list of unsigned Cardinals to six with the signing of pitchers Don Liddle and Lloyd Merritt and first baseman Glenn Nelson.

The Pittsburgh Pirates reported 25 players signed today with two southpaw catchers, Danny Kravitz and Dick Rand, agreeing to terms.

The Baltimore Orioles have announced the signing of two rookies, bringing the total number of players under contract to 15.

Signed to contracts were Joe Van Durham, rookie outfielder discharged last fall from the Army, and Tomy Patton, 21-year - old catcher drafted last month from Omaha of the American Assn.

The Chicago White Sox today had players Nos. 14 and 15 lured into the fold for 1957 with the signing of rookie first baseman Norman Larker and southpaw reliefer Paul La Palme.

The Sox Wednesday signed No. 13, big first sacker Walt Dropo, who batted .229 last year. Dropo moved in as a regular on July 29 and hit .290 in 62 games.

Cochrane Predicts Mantle Record

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mickey Cochrane says his namesake, Mickey Mantle, "will break Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season—there's no doubt about it."

"Black Mike" Cochrane of Philadelphia and Detroit Tiger fame made the statement Wednesday night after Mantle received the Frederick C. Miller Memorial Trophy as the male athlete of 1956.

The former star catcher, who has a sports show on a Chicago television station now, described the 25-year-old slugger as "the greatest switchhitter I ever saw."

Celtics Pointing For Cage Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Having trampled all opposition in the race for the eastern division title of the National Basketball Assn., the Boston Celtics today were looking for new fields to conquer — with nothing in the record books shy of their grasp.

The talent-laden Bostonians displayed an awesome attack Wednesday night in rolling up 140 points to 108 for Syracuse to miss the alltime single team scoring record by only two points. Oddly enough, it was against the Celtics on Feb. 8, 1956 that Philadelphia set the mark at 142 pints.

The Celtis, however, did set a season record, snapping the mark of 137 points set by St. Louis against New York last month.

Shooting Accuracy Helping OSU Quint

CHICAGO (AP) — Team accuracy from the floor and foul line is paying off for Ohio State although the league-leading Buckeyes have only one man among the top 14 scorers in the Big Ten race.

In five straight conference victories, Ohio State has hit .457 per cent of its field goals for a record pace and is second to Indiana in free throw accuracy with .714. The Hoosiers (2-2) have .732.

Carrara Still King In Marble Despite Years Of Quarrying

Romans Found Mountains Of Prized Stone

Most Of Production Goes For Export; Tourist Paradise

Michaelangelo came to Carrara to select marble for his sculptures. Today, churchmen from the U. S. make the pilgrimage to the "marble mountains" to order religious sculptures for their churches back home.

Since Michaelangelo's time Carrara has been synonymous with marble. On a mountain at Carrara the Italian master inscribed his name as a tribute to its marble.

However, Michaelangelo didn't discover Carrara's marble; he merely popularized it. The ancient Romans, long before the Italian jack-of-all-arts, had beaten a path to the hamlet at the foot of the magic mountains.

For the splendor of ancient Rome was reflected in its public buildings and monuments carved from Carrara marble— marble which Roman slaves toiled to quarry and transport to the Eternal City.

* * *

PRECIOUS LITTLE Carrara marble goes to Rome these days. Most of it is destined for the United States, Canada and South America.

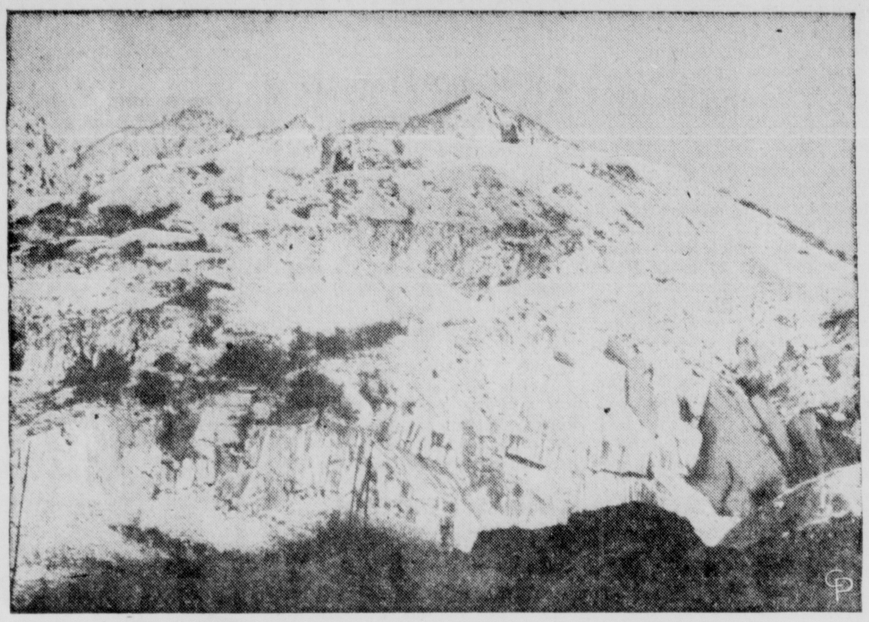
In one marble sculptory six master sculptors have labored for months on a 30-foot long, 8-foot high scene from the Last Supper. Destination: a Canadian cemetery.

A church in Philadelphia has ordered a similarly massive sculpture of the Virgin Mary, the Christ Child and Joseph.

Tourists — mostly Americans— never had it so good in marble. A sample: a fancy marble desk set—a double pen holder, stationary rack, ash tray and letter opener—sells for just $7, a fifth of its cost in the States.

The town of Carrara is carved literally from the Apuan Alps. Its fabulous marble comes in snow-white, pink, black and yellow.

The hamlet nestles at the base of three towering peaks—Sagro (5,738 feet), Pizzo d'Uccelo (6,384 feet), and Pisanino (6,391 feet). In thousands of years of quarrying, yawning ravines have been cut in the once solid marble slopes.



The majestic marble mountains of Carrara gleam beneath the Italian sun.

* * *

Carrara basks in dazzling sunlight reflected from the marble-sheeted mountain walls. Its population of 62,000 is almost entirely dependent upon the marble for their living.

It is, in sharp contrast to the grandeur of the marble they quarry, a bleak life. Unlike most Italians, the people of Carrara are given to silence.

In Carrara marble quarrying remains shockingly primitive. Giant teams of white oxen drag the huge blocks of marble into place for cutting and transportation to distant markets.

Quarriers sing a mournful song as they sway from ropes against the mountain side drilling holes for the placing of blast charges. A single rope supports each quarrier. Rock slides are frequent, and they take a heavy toll.

Modern safety precautions are unknown here. Not even safety shoes and goggles. Even gloves are rarely worn. The life of a marble miner comes cheap; it always has.

WEEKS AND even months may be spent in drilling and preparing to break away a particular piece of marble. After the marble is blasted from the mountain, it is placed on wooden rollers, and, soap-smeared, it slowly slides to the cutting blocks.

Carrarans, despite their people's long tradition in marble, still live in awe of the marble mountains. The gargantuan slabs of raw marble they regard as something sacred.

They are incredibly expert in the precision blasting of the marble—but, nonetheless, they fear it.

Perhaps it is because the magic mountains have claimed so many hundreds of lives over the centuries—or perhaps it is the abject poverty (the average miner's wage is $2 a day) in which Carrara huddles at the foot of the marble pass, a symbol of marble's enduring mastery over the men who work it.

New Plant Gets OK

LORAIN (AP)—A building permit for a $6 million National Gypsum Co. plant here has been approved by the zoning board of appeals. Issuance of the permit was delayed by objections to the plant's dust making potential.

Oberlin Virus Cases Studied

OBERLIN (AP)—A report was expected from the state health department today on a puzzling virus infection that has affected 82 students at Oberlin College. Twelve of the victims are in Allen Memorial Hospital here, 19 are confined to dormitories and the other 51 have been sent home.

"The present analysis of the situation indicates that the illness is a mild form of virus infection," said Dr. William E. Stevenson, president of the college. Doctors say complete rest is the only cure for the virus.

Portsmouth Gets Styrofoam Plant

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—MMM, Inc., of Houston, Tex., plans to begin operations here within the next few days in the production of pipe insulation and novelties made from styrofoam.

Dean Everson Jr., MMM president, said the styrofoam, product of the Dow Chemical Co., would be made at a plant Dow is completing near Hanging Rock in Lawrence County.

The local plant will employ about 25 persons at first.

Small Battle Unit Seen For Future

AKRON (AP)—Future wars will be fought by highly trained and relatively small battle groups, according to Rear Adm. Ephraim R. Mc Lean Jr., commander of the Navy's Fourth District.

"As the unit size diminishes," he said Wednesday, "the importance of the individual becomes greater."

His remarks were made during presentation of the Department of Defense reserve award to the Quaker Oats Co. here. It was the first such award made to an Ohio industry.

Quaker Oats received the award for its policy of allowing men time off for Reserve activities and making up the difference between Reserve pay and on-the-job wages.

Movie Is Boomed

COLUMBUS (AP)—A proclamation urging support of the world premiere of the movie "Battle Hymn" in Marietta Feb. 14 has been issued by Gov. C. William O'Neill, a Marietta native.

Winner Of $104,500 On TV Can Afford His Own Set Now

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren is a tall, 30-year-old, extraordinarily intelligent English instructor at Columbia University who looks somewhat like Joseph Cotten in his younger days and who does not own a television set.

He plans to buy one, however. It will be an appropriate gesture, for he has recently come into a position to afford one and he also has recently made television history of a kind.

This week he ran his television quiz show earnings to $104,500 after nine arduous weeks of answering an unlimited variety of questions on the best of this season's new TV quiz programs, Twenty-One (NBC-TV, Mondays). The previous TV giveaway record was $100,000, won by five persons on The Big Surprise.

Van Doren has strong nerves and self-confidence — which are quite different from egotism. Most quiz contestants eventually begin to act like hams. Van Doren does not.

He says he hasn't the vaguest idea what his I.Q. is. When people try to discover the sources of his intelligence, he gives the credit to his father, Mark Van Doren, the writer and teacher, and his mother, a former newspaper woman.

"In my family we were always in the habit of looking things up when we didn't know the answer," he said. "Just the other night when I was up in Connecticut having dinner with my parents, we all had different ideas on the name of the malarial-bearing mosquito. We looked it up. It's a mosquito of the genus Anopheles."

No matter how much he makes on Twenty-One, Van Doren plans to continue teaching. After buying a car and a TV set he plans to use the rest as a backlog which will enable him to write fiction without having to do some of the hack writing necessary to piece out an instructor's salary. He mutters something about buying a house some day. A house requires a wife, of course, and probably Van Doren has a girl in mind. But he absolutely declines to identify her.

Dam Fixup Planned

WARREN (AP)—Repairs to a new dam across the Grand River, damaged by a flash flood, are being planned by the owners, the Modd Feed mill. Fast melting snow and heavy rain washed out a wing wall of the dam located southwest of Parkman in Geauga County.

Michaelangelo came to Carrara to select marble for his sculptures. Today, churchmen from the U. S. make the pilgrimage to the "marble mountains" to order religious sculptures for their churches back home.

Since Michaelangelo's time Carrara has been synonymous with marble. On a mountain at Carrara the Italian master inscribed his name as a tribute to its marble.

However, Michaelangelo didn't discover Carrara's marble; he merely popularized it. The ancient Romans, long before the Italian jack-of-all-arts, had beaten a path to the hamlet at the foot of the magic mountains.

For the splendor of ancient Rome was reflected in its public buildings and monuments carved from Carrara marble— marble which Roman slaves toiled to quarry and transport to the Eternal City.

PRECIOUS LITTLE Carrara marble goes to Rome these days. Most of it is destined for the United States, Canada and South America.

In one marble sculptory six master sculptors have labored for months on a 30-foot long, 8-foot high scene from the Last Supper. Destination: a Canadian cemetery.

A church in Philadelphia has ordered a similarly massive sculpture of the Virgin Mary, the Christ Child and Joseph.

Tourists — mostly Americans— never had it so good in marble. A sample: a fancy marble desk set—a double pen holder, stationary rack, ash tray and letter opener—sells for just $7, a fifth of its cost in the States.

The town of Carrara is carved literally from the Apuan Alps. Its fabulous marble comes in snow-white, pink, black and yellow.

The hamlet nestles at the base of three towering peaks—Sagro (5,738 feet), Pizzo d'Uccelo (6,384 feet), and Pisanino (6,391 feet). In thousands of years of quarrying, yawning ravines have been cut in the once solid marble slopes.

CARRARA imparts an otherworldly feeling even to cynical, bargain-happy tourists. The magic mountains loom majectic and serene high above the blue waters of the Mediterranean a few miles away near Leghorn.

Carrara basks in dazzling sunlight reflected from the marble-sheeted mountain walls. Its population of 62,000 is almost entirely dependent upon the marble for their living.

It is, in sharp contrast to the grandeur of the marble they quarry, a bleak life. Unlike most Italians, the people of Carrara are given to silence.

In Carrara marble quarrying remains shockingly primitive. Giant teams of white oxen drag the huge blocks of marble into place for cutting and transportation to distant markets.

Quarriers sing a mournful song as they sway from ropes against the mountain side drilling holes for the placing of blast charges. A single rope supports each quarrier. Rock slides are frequent, and they take a heavy toll.

Modern safety precautions are unknown here. Not even safety shoes and goggles. Even gloves are rarely worn. The life of a marble miner comes cheap; it always has.

WEEKS AND even months may be spent in drilling and preparing to break away a particular piece of marble. After the marble is blasted from the mountain, it is placed on wooden rollers, and, soap-smeared, it slowly slides to the cutting blocks.

Carrarans, despite their people's long tradition in marble, still live in awe of the marble mountains. The gargantuan slabs of raw marble they regard as something sacred.

They are incredibly expert in the precision blasting of the marble—but, nonetheless, they fear it.

Perhaps it is because the magic mountains have claimed so many hundreds of lives over the centuries—or perhaps it is the abject poverty (the average miner's wage is $2 a day) in which Carrara huddles at the foot of the marble pass, a symbol of marble's enduring mastery over the men who work it.

New Plant Gets OK

LORAIN (AP)—A building permit for a $6 million National Gypsum Co. plant here has been approved by the zoning board of appeals. Issuance of the permit was delayed by objections to the plant's dust making potential.

Oberlin Virus Cases Studied

OBERLIN (AP)—A report was expected from the state health department today on a puzzling virus infection that has affected 82 students at Oberlin College. Twelve of the victims are in Allen Memorial Hospital here, 19 are confined to dormitories and the other 51 have been sent home.

"The present analysis of the situation indicates that the illness is a mild form of virus infection," said Dr. William E. Stevenson, president of the college. Doctors say complete rest is the only cure for the virus.

Portsmouth Gets Styrofoam Plant

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—MMM, Inc., of Houston, Tex., plans to begin operations here within the next few days in the production of pipe insulation and novelties made from styrofoam.

Dean Everson Jr., MMM president, said the styrofoam, product of the Dow Chemical Co., would be made at a plant Dow is completing near Hanging Rock in Lawrence County.

The local plant will employ about 25 persons at first.

Small Battle Unit Seen For Future

AKRON (AP)—Future wars will be fought by highly trained and relatively small battle groups, according to Rear Adm. Ephraim R. Mc Lean Jr., commander of the Navy's Fourth District.

"As the unit size diminishes," he said Wednesday, "the importance of the individual becomes greater."

His remarks were made during presentation of the Department of Defense reserve award to the Quaker Oats Co. here. It was the first such award made to an Ohio industry.

Quaker Oats received the award for its policy of allowing men time off for Reserve activities and making up the difference between Reserve pay and on-the-job wages.

Movie Is Boomed

Winner Of $104,500 On TV Can Afford His Own Set Now

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren is a tall, 30-year-old, extraordinarily intelligent English instructor at Columbia University who looks somewhat like Joseph Cotten in his younger days and who does not own a television set.

He plans to buy one, however. It will be an appropriate gesture, for he has recently come into a position to afford one and he also has recently made television history of a kind.

This week he ran his television quiz show earnings to $104,500 after nine arduous weeks of answering an unlimited variety of questions on the best of this season's new TV quiz programs, Twenty-One (NBC-TV, Mondays). The previous TV giveaway record was $100,000, won by five persons on The Big Surprise.

Van Doren has strong nerves and self-confidence — which are quite different from egotism. Most quiz contestants eventually begin to act like hams. Van Doren does not.

He says he hasn't the vaguest idea what his I.Q. is. When people try to discover the sources of his intelligence, he gives the credit to his father, Mark Van Doren, the writer and teacher, and his mother, a former newspaper woman.

"In my family we were always in the habit of looking things up when we didn't know the answer," he said. "Just the other night when I was up in Connecticut having dinner with my parents, we all had different ideas on the name of the malarial-bearing mosquito. We looked it up. It's a mosquito of the genus Anopheles."

No matter how much he makes on Twenty-One, Van Doren plans to continue teaching. After buying a car and a TV set he plans to use the rest as a backlog which will enable him to write fiction without having to do some of the hack writing necessary to piece out an instructor's salary. He mutters something about buying a house some day. A house requires a wife, of course, and probably Van Doren has a girl in mind. But he absolutely declines to identify her.

Dam Fixup Planned

WARREN (AP)—Repairs to a new dam across the Grand River, damaged by a flash flood, are being planned by the owners, the Modd Feed mill. Fast melting snow and heavy rain washed out a wing wall of the dam located southwest of Parkman in Geauga County.
